"The Lily of the Wilds"

A Beautiful White Girl Who Was Recaptured from Indians, in 1858, by Captain L. S. Ross.

By AUSTIN CALLAN.

When Texas knighthood was in flower deeds of daring were common. On two occasions the immortal Lawrence Sullivan Ross, once governor of Texas, walked through the shadows of the Valley of Death to rescue white girls from savage clutches. All readers, perhaps, know of the deadly duel this beloved warrior and statesman fought with Petra Nocona when he killed that chief of the Comanches and rescued Cynthia Parker. But on another occasion he was seriously wounded in a successful effort to restore to civilization a stolen white girl.

In the summer of 1858 reports reached various frontier forts that a beautiful white girl had been seen with the Indians in the Wichita mountains. No information was obtainable regarding her, however, and the facts of a raid in which a child like the one described had been carried away, were not in the hands of any post commander.

There was no doubt about some home having been robbed of a beloved one. Yet the fair transplanted flower was blooming among the thorns and the cacti without a single protest. It was strange, indeed, and could only be explained by the assumption that her entire family had been murdered at the time she was taken captive.

The incident was the subject of discussion among settlers all along the frontier. Fitzhugh Lee heard of it at Camp Colorado, Texas, and spoke of sending a sufficient force from his far-away headquarters to insure her capture. Major Van Dorn of Fort Belknap, Texas, was also interested and in the early fall of 1858 when he gave orders for an offensive campaign against the Comanches, something was said about the "phantom girl," or "the lily of the wilds," as the child had been termed in certain correspondence.

Attacking the Comanche Village.

Captain Lawrence Sullivan Ross was in his prime at that time. Major Van Dorn loved him personally and had the greatest confidence in his cool-headed courage. The two penetrated the heart of the Indian country together. A stockade was built high up the Wichita, and, when all preparations were completed, operations began. In a picturesque spot at the foot of the Wichita mountains the Comanche village was found. There the Red warriors had an ideal summer home. The papooses were being trained to shoot and ride in the shadow of the hills and the savage settlement was thriving on the spoils of raids against the pale faces.

It was daylight on the morning of October 1st when the troops attacked this village. The Indians were asleep and their horses were grazing unattended near by. Major Van Dorn instructed Captain Ross to quickly round up the animals and have them driven off so that the foe would have to fight afoot. By the time this was accomplished the Indians were thoroughly aroused, and when they discovered their plight they were deeply chagrined, for of all the savage tribes the Comanches more than any other depended on skillful horsemanship in battle. They were the best riders in America and astride their steeds they were the hardest targets to find with bullets. In spite of the disadvantage, however, the enraged warriors fought desperately. It was a foggy morning, and after the battle progressed for a little while the smoke became so dense that it was impossible to see very far in any direction. A number of Indians dashed down a little ravine that led away from the village. Captain Ross observed them and in company with one other man and a Caddo guide, gave pursuit. When the Indians were overtaken they were found to be squaws and children and were not fired upon. Turning his horse back in the direction of the camp, the captain observed another squad of women coming pell mell, and among them there was a little white girl. He told the Caddo to dismount and catch her, which he did, but being alarmed at the presence of a strange face, the girl fought desperately. At this moment Ross found himself completely surrounded by twenty-five of the most ferocious warriors of the Comanche tribe. And owing to the density of the fog, Van Dorn, who had attacked from the opposite side of the village, could not see Ross' predicament. The Indians charged and a young lieutenant who was with the captain fell dead from his horse. Ross was armed with a Sharp's rifle, but because of the dampness of the morning it would not fire.

Chief Mohee Killed.

Among the warriors was Chief Mohee. He had known Ross from his boyhood, and he knew, too, that he was an intrepid fighter, so he instantly availed himself of the opportunity of grabbing up the dead lieutenant's gun and firing it at Captain Ross. The brave Texan was struck by the bullet and fell to the earth. He quickly reached for his pistol, which was on the side next to the ground, but before he could draw it, Mohee was upon him with a deadly-looking knife. With a satanic look on his face, he was fixing to drive the blade home when a bullet fired by Lieutenant James Majors pierced his heart.

Through all this desperate encounter the Caddo held to the little frightened girl, and the first words that Captain Ross spoke, as his wound was being dressed on the battlefield, were relative to the "lily of the wilds." He directed that she be given the best of care and returned to Fort Belknap.

Major Van Dorn was also wounded in the fight and it was several days before either he or Captain Ross could be moved from the immediate vicinity where they fell. As soon as they were able to travel, however, the party started back to Fort Belknap. A litter was made and swung between two gentle mules and Ross was carried on this. Sometimes he would get tired of the awkward position and his Caddos, who loved him devotedly, would carry him on their backs.

In the fight, which was one of the most desperate that ever took place between the whites and Indians in Texas, ninety of the Comanche warriors were killed and many were wounded. More than 500 head of horses were also retaken from the savages and returned to the settlers from whom they had been stolen. Only five of the soldiers were killed outright, but a number were wounded, including the two chief officers.

Adopted by Captain Ross.

The little girl was adopted by Captain Ross and he named her Lizzie, in honor of his sweetheart. No information whatever could be had regarding her relatives, although all the facts were published to the world. Her foster father gave her every educational advantage possible, and as the years rolled by the white lily that was plucked from the wilds of the Wichita hills, grew up to be a refined and noble woman. It required much patience at first to teach the child the language of her own mother. For a long, long time she was an Indian in all save blood.

The outdoor life in sun and storm, the worship of moon and star, the wild dashes across hill and vale behind mounted warriors as they chased the fleet-footed deer, all of these united in changing the child of a Caucasian cradle into a tiny Ismaelites of the plains. And it was many days before the flower could be brought back to the native sweetness of the home garden.

But Miss Lizzie Ross in after years became a fair belle in the highest society of Waco and was married to a wealthy Californian who lived near Los Angeles. Often she came back to Texas and always on these trips she filled the home of her illustrious benefactor with sunshine. She rejoiced that a brave man had rescued her from the fate of an Indian squaw and was happy through life because she had fortunately been brought out of the clouds of savage superstition into the bright, soft light of Christian civilization.

Occasionally, however, as the matured woman looked out over the blue waters of the Pacific Ocean, forever restless and forever mysterious, and beheld the rolling swells rising to meet the tide, then breaking and racing along the strand, a tear would steal down her cheek and she would sigh for the love of an unknown mother.

Using the Depth Bomb

How Oil Wells Are "Shot" With Nitro-Glycerin to Increase Flow.

By BUFORD O. BROWN.

Sending down a depth bomb for oil is an undertaking much less known by the general public than was that method of sinking German submarines—the stories of which still thrill us. Going after oil in this way is surrounded by dangers which make the task no less hazardous than was the fighting of submarines during the great war.

From the beginning of the oil industry around Oil City, Penn., prospectors frequently felt that the hole they put down didn't give a fair test for the money spent. They wanted some way to feel out on every side to see if there might not be a pool of the precious liquid, in case the six-inch bit didn't find "pay" sand.

Consequently it was not long before one George Roberts secured a patent on "setting off explosives" under water. Lowering a charge to be touched off at the desired spot would, if successful, tear a hole reaching out yards in every direction. It multiplied the chance of getting oil perhaps a thousand fold. Naturally Roberts' idea took well. With a charge based on "what the traffic would bear," he began operations.

Oil men soon found a way to lower Roberts' prices much the same way that Kentucky mountaineers found of circumventing the Government internal revenue tax. Roberts' patent was on the "method of exploding." It had nothing to do with the amount or kind of explosive used. "Depth bombs" varied in size from 20 to 200 quarts of nitro-glycerin, and now shots of 800 quarts are sometimes fired.

A "moonlighter" was hired to come at night and place—say—180 quarts of nitro-glycerin in the well. Next day Roberts, according to agreement, put in twenty quarts and fired the shot. Of course the explosion set off the "moonlighter's" charge, too. So that there was gotten all the explosive force of 200 quarts of nitro. If the shot was smaller, likely Roberts' share was proportionately greater than one in ten.

Almost a $3,000 "Shot."

No such trouble is experienced now, since Roberts' patent has long since expired. Nevertheless, "shooting a well" is no inexpensive undertaking. Prices quoted by one of the largest companies are $195 for fifty quarts, $300 for eighty quarts, $350 for 100 quarts of nitro, and thereafter the charge is $3.50 a quart, with an additional expense of $40 each day after the first day. So that the shot of 800 quarts recently used in the Texas Panhandle well, meant an outlay of only a little less than $3,000.

The hazard involved is one reason why torpedoing for oil is so expensive. As was the case in chasing subs, if anything goes wrong the "shooter" seldom lives to tell "how it happened." One of the great dangers is that a shell being lowered into a hole will be caught in a flow of oil or gas and come back up. To overcome this weighted shells are used. The amount of "weighting" necessary is determined by sending down a torpedo container filled with water. Ordinary window weights are attached. When it is found what the upward pressure of the gas is, a sure-enough torpedo is weighted and sent into the hole. The gas and its descent becomes more rapid the friction will likely result in a premature explosion which might easily ruin a well worth millions.

The torpedoes are made with air holes over the top so that not a bubble of nitro will be permitted to escape while filling the tube. Even so minute a quantity, if it should be trodden upon, might explode the entire charge. The 800-quart torpedo was shot in a well gassing 15 million cubic feet a day.

R. A. Rapp, head of one of the largest torpedo plants in the Mid-Continent field, once saw 1,500 feet of 6½-inch casing blown out of a hole by nitro-glycerin. A torpedo containing 500 quarts was being lowered. Everything went well until the bomb was fired, when the well "bridged." As though impatient at such puny efforts to throttle it, the torpedo shoved the casing out of the well, splintered the derrick, and left a miniature forest of well casing standing about.

"I saw the casing start upward," Mr. Rapp said. "And the only reason I didn't get away faster was that my feet wouldn't negotiate more speed. Finally, at a safe distance, I looked back and there were joints of casing standing everywhere." The pipe had broken in joint lengths as it came out of the hole. Much of it hit on end when it came down, sinking deep enough in the earth to hold it upright.

How the Torpedoes Are Made.

The torpedoes are made of tin, reinforced for greater strength. They vary in diameter from two to seven inches, and are from two to ten feet long. Thickness of the sand to be shot determines the length of torpedo used. If there is more than ten feet of sand, other torpedoes are impinged upon the first one, until any desired length is secured.

A hook with automatic release is used for lowering the torpedo. It is attached to a wire line, and the moment the load touches bottom the hook lets go. Where a well is gassing the automatic hook is not used because of danger that the pressure may release its charge. Then as the torpedo gradually settles below containers in which nitro-glycerin is transported likewise have two nozzles for the same reason.

Accessories to the torpedo include an anchor and squib. The anchor goes on to the end of the bomb. Its purpose is to hold the torpedo in place and keep it from going too deep in the sand. Then there is the squib, or firing charge. Sometimes a torpedo is fired by means of a "go-devil." At other times an electric connection is used. The "squib" is a small container with a charge of dynamite, leading to which is a timed fuse imbedded in sand put in the tube on top of the charge. The go-devil is a small container holding a charge of dynamite and a detonator, or cap, on the lower end of which has been placed a sharp nose. It is dropped into the hole and the force with which it strikes causes an explosion which sets off the torpedo. If the squib is used a fuse is timed according to depth, a match is applied and the little messenger of destruction is sent on its mission.

Composition of Nitro-Glycerin and Its Manufacture.

Shooting is less hazardous, however, than the manufacture of the torpedo's contents. Apparently this operation is not intricate. But the man in charge knows that the margin of safety is so small that every precaution is taken to prevent a mishap. Nitro-glycerin ignites around 100 degrees Fahrenheit. It freezes at 45 degrees. While it can be exploded in a frozen condition, it is not practical to handle the "syrup" frozen. Seventy degrees is the temperature at which it is desired to keep the factory.

Nitro-glycerin is composed of 62 per cent sulphuric acid and 38 per cent nitric acid. At the plant in Electra, Texas (and it is one of the most complete in the Mid-Continent fields) there is a vat elevated about twenty feet off the ground. Into this is poured some 1,500 pounds of the acids. There is a run-way leading to a mixer. Here 250 pounds of sweet glycerin are added. In the mixer are a number of paddles suspended from the top for the purpose of thoroughly fusing the ingredients, and around this flows a stream of cold water to prevent the accumulation of sufficient heat to start boiling the "soup." Due care must be taken, of course, that the paddles do not spunk hard enough to "raise the dander" of the nitro, else an explosion is certain.

After being thoroughly stirred the mixture is drawn off in a big wooden tank filled with water, where it is washed. This washing is for the purpose of removing sulphuric acid. Soda ash is introduced to take out all discoloration.

Warm water is used here because a slightly higher temperature helps get rid of the excess acid. However, the mixture generates heat rapidly, and the man standing watch has two thermometers which are tested each morning, to warn him of just what is going on. On each is a bright red mark. Between that mark and eternity is less than two degrees. If the temperature rises too rapidly he can do two things—turn on steam and "fan" out the fire, or open a spigot at the bottom of the tank and "draw" the mixture in cold water. Whichever step is taken, if he values his life, the "cook" follows his act with a hurried exit, hoping for the best.

Everything going well in this tank, after a few moments down goes the nitro, up come the acids; and the explosive can then be drawn off through the spigot in the bottom into a second washer. This tub, like the first, has a series of paddles so suspended that they will not dip their noses very far into the syrup, but will stir it gently.

After this second washing the nitro is ready for packing. It is poured into rectangular cans 6 by 6 by 12 inches, each having a capacity of ten quarts. These are taken to the store room, perhaps a quarter of a mile from the factory. Built similar to an ice house, this vault has a capacity of about 500 quarts of the explosive. Not far away is a heating plant, from which hot water is piped to the store room. Its temperature must never get low enough to permit freezing.

Transported in "Padded Cells."

When an order is received for a depth bomb, these ten-quart cans of nitro-glycerin are loaded into a box of "padded cells" for transportation to the well. The carrying box has in its bottom a copper pan lined with a rubber mat. Inside of this is a second pan, and inside of that is a lining of wood pulp. This not only prevents any jar which might prematurely explode the nitro, but the pulp absorbs the nitro if a drop should escape the watchful eye of its guardian.

The lid is lined with a copper pan, over which is a rubber mat. In the box are compartments, likewise lined, each fitting a can as snug as the fit of a lady's glove. After the cans are placed and the lid has been securely fastened, the driver starts off with apparently as little concern as if it were ordinary syrup he is hauling. Recently 800 quarts of this "soup" were transported from Electra to a well nearly 200 miles away.

Practically all charges used in North Texas and Southwest Oklahoma are small—most of them around twenty quarts. They are used merely to clean out the hole. In the Breckenridge and Eastland fields, and in Northern Oklahoma, where formations are coarser, it is not infrequent to shoot a well with 300 to 500 quarts.

"How great is the force of a bomb containing 500 quarts of nitro-glycerin," the shooter was asked. "See that car," and Mr. Rapp indicated an automobile half a mile away, "you can stand that far from a well in which a 500-quart charge of nitro is being exploded 3,000 feet down, and you will feel the whole earth tremble." Such a shot, he explained, will tear a hole under ground large enough to set an ordinary house in, or if the formation is coarse and there are caverns, the explosion may tear fissures in the earth two or three hundred yards in extent.

As much danger accompanies the handling and hauling of nitro-glycerin as in its manufacture. Several years ago a wagon-load of nitro was being hauled to the oil fields of Ranger, Texas. When the wagon and team arrived at a bridge across Mary's Creek, 10 miles west of Fort Worth, the nitro exploded with such terrific force that the bridge was completely demolished, a huge cavity torn into the earth, and the driver and a companion, as well as the wagon and team, blown into atoms. Only bits of flesh of the men and team were found, and window panes in farm homes two miles from the scene of the explosion were shattered. The only cause assigned for the accident was that when the wagon and team attempted to cross the bridge a severe jolting of the wagon prematurely set off the nitro-glycerin.

CURRENT COMMENT

By J. H. LOWRY

MIGHT AND RIGHT.

I have been told all of my life that might doesn't make right, but I am beginning to fear that might makes what the world accepts as right, and the voice of the people being the voice of God, we can hardly get away from the stubborn fact that might is right. A sad-hearted poet, who had seen his pet theories trampled under foot at the ballot box, soothed his lacerated feelings by declaring in rhyme that truth crushed to earth would rise again, the eternal years of God being hers to unhorse error, but my observation is to the effect that when truth gets a knock-out blow, error builds up a political machine that keeps it in power. If I had lived before the war I would have believed in and advocated the doctrine of state sovereignty, and in truth, I believe in it now and occasionally try to speak a word in its favor. If anything is clearly taught in that immortal document, the constitution of the United States of America, it is that the states have the right of local self-government, but the war made centralization in government right, and centralization gives every possible evidence of continuing to be right. If the South had had a few more men, a few more guns, and a little more to eat, state sovereignty would be right today, and no man would dare attack it, but the yanks had the numbers and the guns and they shot state sovereignty out of the constitution and made federalization right. If Germany had been a little stronger, the world war would have made German kultur and German barbarity right, and today Wilhelm would be rattling a golden sword and receiving the kisses of Europe's fairest women instead of sawing wood over at Doorn. Might is still right with most men and nations, in spite of all the poetry that has been written telling us it is not, and men and nations are making preparations to see to it that might continues to be right. To be sure, men have advanced in art and science and other good things, but in nothing have they advanced more than in the making of implements to destroy their own kind. We boast much of civilization, but under the kalsomine of civilization there is about as much hate, envy and jealousy as in the days far back, when men wore breech-cloths and women made their spring bonnets leaves. And now, as then, when anything worth while is at stake, might makes right.

LAW ENFORCEMENT. As a theme for conversation law enforcement stands second on the list; the weather coming first, of course. It was the great philosopher, Mark Twain, who informed the world that while a great deal has been said about the weather, very little has been done; but Mark's aphorism didn't put a curb on weather talk, neither did it incite any one to activity in the work of weather reform. I was out a few minutes this morning, and in that short period of time six or seven men spoke to me about the weather, most of them being quite severe in their denunciation of its follies and foibles. Not one person did I hear commend the weather's course, and one fellow went so far as to say, "it's a hell of a spell of weather." It was a very cold May morning, and I am inclined to believe the fellow got mixed up on his metaphor or qualifying adjectives, but of course, it may be that hell has its cold spells. I am confident it has if the I. W. W. contingent are ever called out of the flames to act as firemen. But, while there was severe condemnation of the weather's course by all, I never heard a plan for reforming the weather suggested, no man going further than to express wishes and hopes for better things. Such wishes and hopes have been expressed since the first thunder storm shook the world, but the weather's antics are no better than they were in the days of Elijah. The same may be said of law enforcement.

Every candidate I have heard speak, or whose literature I have read, has had as the keynote of his campaign the enforcement of the law. Every officer who has been elected in Texas the last half century has been elected on a law-enforcement platform, and has gone into office pledged to the enforcement of the law. The preachers have been preaching law enforcement for many years, and the papers have cried out for the enforcement of the law. People talk law enforcement most of the time they are not discussing the weather, and every person admits there is no hope for the country save in the strict enforcement of the law—but there is no improvement in law enforcement. And why? It's a hard thing to say, but it's true, nevertheless: the people are not in favor of the enforcement of the law. Furthermore, the people are law-breakers. I would not say this to one man, but feel comparatively safe in saying it of all men. Good old David would hardly have dared single out a long-armed, hard-fisted six-footer and called him a liar, but he called all men liars and got by without being called; and David told the truth. To be sure, all of us are in favor of the enforcement of some laws, but where is the man who is in favor of the enforcement of all laws? The boot-logger is in favor of the enforcement of the law against stealing, and will throw a fit if some fellow steals his mash or still; but he believes it all right to make moonshine whiskey. The horse-thief wants the law of murder enforced, for the protection of himself and his family, but runs roughshod over the enactment which says thou shalt not appropriate to thine own use the property of another. All people who are looked upon as respectable citizens are in favor of the enforcement of the laws against stealing, murder, moonshining and forgery, but many of those will renege the law in a minute by smashing a fellow's nose if slight provocation be given. And if we will search the statutes closely most of us will find a law or two, the violation of which causes us no qualms of conscience. In the same book in which we find a law against murder and moonshining, we also find a law against speeding. Does it trouble your conscience very much to throw on the gas and run thirty miles an hour, when no cop is looking? The law says we must render all property for taxation; the law says only so many ducks and birds may be killed in one day, and only at certain seasons of the year. The law in my town, and doubtless in yours also, says stock must not be grazed in certain places, that guns and pistols must not be fired, that not more than one hog may be kept in a space of 1,600 square feet, that bicycling and roller skating on the sidewalks are unlawful, and that it is unlawful to expectorate on a sidewalk. Run over the list and see whether you are a law-breaker, and whether you encourage law-breaking.

Remember, law is law; and one enactment is as sacred as another. The man who obeys and favors the enforcement of the laws he likes, and which do not inconvenience him or interfere with his pleasures, can not establish fully his claim to being a law-abiding man, and there will never be a perfect reign of law until men regard laws because they are laws of the land and bulwarks of the state and nation. Sometimes the enforcement of some laws seems tyrannical and foolish, but winking at and condoning the violation of any law weakens all law, and leads toward anarchy. Strict enforcement of every law was God's plan when He ruled direct from the Heavenly court. It seemed the part of wisdom to Saul to save the best sheep and oxen taken from the Amalekites, even though God had told him to destroy all—and Saul lost his kingdom and life. The law of that day was that no man should touch the ark of the covenant.

Uzzah felt that it would be all right to steady the ark with his hand while it was being hauled across a branch—and Uzzah was struck dead. Uzzah, I am sure, regarded and obeyed most of the laws of his time, but Uzzah was a law-breaker, and as such was punished by God. It's a fact that we haven't done much in the way of law-enforcement, and it's a fact that most of us are law-breakers, and few of us really favor the enforcement of the law. Many years ago I witnessed the attempt of an official to enforce the law—that is, to enforce all laws. This official was applauded for a time, but when the next election rolled around he was defeated by a very large majority. I am somewhat ashamed to acknowledge it, but I assisted in piling up a majority against him. I wanted the officer to enforce the law against gambling, fighting, etc., but when he got after me for violating the law against piling cordwood in the street, that was another matter, and he lost my vote. To be sure, it does not manifest as mean a spirit toward mankind to refrain one of the minor statutory enactments as to commit one of the awful crimes, but it does show a disregard for law. Think on these things when you talk about obedience to law and law enforcement.

Speaking of true happiness and contentment—the Elysian field we have all dreamed about, and the Utopia we have longed for—I have reached the conclusion that we will never pass through their gates and sit down beside their fountains until every person joins our church and is converted to the use of our remedies for physical ills. It saddens us, and always will, to see people going to Heaven on a road that we are sure isn't the shortest and smoothest way; and sometimes it makes us real mad to see them so happy on their way and so enthusiastic over their route. Perhaps the saddest family we ever saw was one that was thrown into the depths of sorrow by the daughter and sister joining the church of the man she had married. The father and brother of the woman hadn't been to the church of their choice for years, but when the daughter and sister cast her lot with another communion, it broke their hearts and plunged them into the mire of disgrace. They were even heard to say they had rather seen her in her coffin. How happy they would have been if the daughter and sister's husband had joined their church. True they wouldn't have attended the church, or contributed anything to its support, but there would have been that triumphant, happy feeling that kept sorrow at arm's length and tinted tomorrow with prophetic ray. Next to getting everybody into our church, seeing all people using our remedies to cure their diseases would contribute most to perfect happiness. Our crown of happiness will never sit steadily so long as people refuse to cure their diseases with our remedies. A single convert to our remedy for a cold, stomachache or rheumatism gives a feeling of satisfaction and triumph that throws old trouble over the dump.

I wouldn't think of knocking on medical scientists, or of disputing any of the claims made by them of the great things accomplished by sanitation and the fight against flies and mosquitoes. I am sure a great work has been done, but not long since I had a look at my father's old account books, and found that his doctor bill for a family of seven was less than half of my doctor's bill for a family of three. And I remember very well that it kept me very busy in the old days with a peach tree limb beating off the flies so our company could eat. That is, it did until we got rich and bought a fly brush made of the beautiful feathers from a peafowl's tail.

HAPPINESS, IN YOUTH AND AGE. Not long since I stood before a graduating class.

In this class were many strong, handsome young men and beautiful girls. The boys were well-groomed and the girls were arrayed in the beautiful, filmy things usually worn at commencement time. And how happy these young people were. The courses of study had been conquered and they were going out into the world with victory written upon their brows, full of hope and unafraid. To them the world was a park filled with greeneries and flowers, and every prospect pleased. Their faces glowed with health, and their heart-beats were the silver notes of songs of hope. And I said, surely youth is life's golden season, to which the joys of maturer age are not worthy to be compared. Not long since I pressed the hand of a saintly woman whose life on earth must soon close. Her hand was weak, her eyes were dim, and time had plowed great wrinkles in her face and on her brow. She spoke of the days gone by, in which she had played a noble part, but she spoke most of the world to come, whose glories she saw with the eye of faith and hope. Serene and sweet, she awaited the summons to join her loved ones and her Lord in the city where the old grow young again. Here was a beauty and happiness not of youthful strength and ambition, but of repose and trust, and her happiness transcended even the happiness of golden youth. It was that subdued peace of mind and heart that passeth human understanding. Aurora indeed is gorgeous, but sunset is sublime.

Robbing Tombs of Egyptian Kings

King Tutankhamen's Tomb Luckily Escaped the Robbers.

ONE OF THE LIFE-SIZE STATUES OF KING TUTANKHAMEN GUARDING THE DOORWAY OF HIS SEPULCHRAL SANCTUARY.

The statue is of wood covered with black pitch. The head, collar, armlets, wristbands, dress, nemes, and staff are gilded and the sandals are of gold. On the forehead is the royal cobra of inlaid bronze and gold. The eye sockets and eyebrows are of gold, the eyeballs of aragonite, and pupils of obsidian.

—By courtesy New York Times Co.

No scientific discovery has aroused greater interest than the recent finding of the tomb of Tutankhamen, in the valley of the Nile, in Egypt, by Lord Carnarvon, an Englishman, who unfortunately died from the bite of an insect while directing excavations within the walls of the tomb.

The excavations have revealed many things of great value to science. Only the outer chambers to King Tut's tomb have been penetrated; the inner chamber, or sarcophagus, which is supposed to contain the King's mummified remains, as yet has not been entered. In these outer chambers were found finely woven textiles, beautiful alabaster vases, gold and ivory inlaid caskets and wooden carvings, life-size statues of the King and of the various gods worshiped by the King, caskets containing the King's under garments, chariots built of the finest material and in the most thoroughly workmanlike manner, beaded art work, jewels, etc. The discovery still further proves that the Egyptians were a progressive people, highly civilized and well advanced in the fine arts and in manufacturing. King Tut was a Pharaoh and reigned 3,200 years ago.

Perhaps it was to the disquieting knowledge that the graves of those who had gone before were being constantly despoiled, that made King Tut and nobles of bygone ages more and more anxious to go to any length to make their last resting place unknown and inaccessible.

But all in vain! Powerful and autocratic as they were in life, in death they were helpless to protect themselves from desecrating hands. Which, when you stop to think of it, has much of the pathetic about it.

The tomb and the dead person of the ancient Egyptian was to him by far the most important thing of his entire life. And he was willing to spend his entire life in preparing a receptacle fitting to receive his august remains and preserve them until he came forth once more to face his gods. And the most valuable security which an Egyptian could offer for the payment of his debts was the mummy of his father or other dear relatives.

Built Their Own Tombs.

Tradition has it that many of the monarchs personally superintended the construction of their own tomb, which was wondrously made and elaborately decorated. And every possible precaution was taken to keep its entrance secret. Yet the very magnitude of their work was often their undoing, since they were forced to employ so many workmen, and all of them could not be trusted. Later-day developments have shown that if they had been satisfied with something simpler they might have rested longer in peace. During the season of 1921-1922 extensive excavations were made at the pyramids of Lisht and the adjacent tombs. And one of the most surprising finds was a tunnel leading directly to a sarcophagus, without even touching the burial chamber. Mr. Mace, in charge of the excavating, is quoted in the Scientific American as saying: "Clearly this was the work of men who knew the exact lay-out of the chambers, and it is more than probable that it was planned and excavated by the foreman in charge of the tomb construction. The robbery in this case took place within a very few days after the funeral. The tunnel was ready. The robbers had but to break through the bottom of the coffin itself and the treasure was in their hands."

Thefts Were Known.

That the diggers and workers on the tombs, and even the servants in the temples themselves, were not to be relied upon, is shown by a process or records concerning grave-robbing, which was issued in about the year 1100 B. C., during the reign of Rameses IX and about 250 years after the burial of King Tutankhamen. This was written on papyrus, a fibrous plant used by the ancients for writing paper, and found centuries afterwards by Arabs, who appear to have cut it in pieces with a sword and sold the fragments to different museums.

Which shows that it is quite impossible to conceal your grave from the man who made it. Poor kings! Not even the pyramids, those most colossal of monuments, with their imposing grandeur and their myriad blind passages leading against blank walls, and their secret entrance for the priests who carried the offerings to the gods, could keep their tombs inviolate!

Not even in the Theban age, when the tombs were tunneled from solid rock in the range of hills of the Valley of the Kings, was their last resting place left undisturbed.

The one reason why King Tutankhamen's discovery has been so valuable is the fact that it is the first tomb of a king which has not hitherto been molested, and the secrets of the ages which his tomb contains will come to us in full.

To one who talks with Dr. Nathaniel Reich, professor of Egyptology, at the University Museum of Pennsylvania, even for a short time, it would seem that the ages hold no secrets for him. Egypt 3,500 years ago lies before him like an open book. Their loves, their hatreds, the food they ate, the clothes they wore, their religions, their passions, their art are at his finger tips.

And he explains the infinite care which they bestowed upon preparing the bodies of their dead persons by the fact that the ancient Egyptian believed that his spirit body was to be rejoined in after life by the spiritual part of his earthly body. Only so could he dwell in the celestial fields of Adu. This reunited body took a material form, but was able to pass through walls and other obstructing bodies and had other properties which we attribute to present-day ghosts.

In the pre-dynasty days the bodies were dried in the terrific heat of the Egyptian sun. Many of these are found in shallow graves near primitive villages. In the early days of the dynasty embalming was a comparatively simple process. The brains and viscera were removed and the inside of the body rubbed with salt and aromatic substances, the outside being anointed with all sorts of costly unguents and bitumen. It was then wrapped in linen bandages. And it is very easy to imagine the different grades both of the oils for anointing and the materials for wrapping which belonged to the wealthy and the poorer classes.

Like every other skill, the embalmers' art became greater and greater. The accompanying ceremony was very elaborate for persons of rank. For the nobles and kings the preparation of the body before it was handed over to the wrappers took 70 days, during which time a priest stood close at hand reciting spells and charms over the different members of the body. Amulets, words of power and texts from the Book of the Dead were cut or written on the bandages, and some of these were placed inside the body. Each part of the body was then placed under the protection of some god and the bodies padded to resemble the form of Osiris, god, Judge of Death.

Family Gathers Around.

With suitable offerings to the gods, edible and otherwise, also mummified, and with fitting adornments of gold and jewelry, the body was then ready to be questioned by the god of death. And with a host of professional mourners, with priests performing sacred rites before the body, which was held upright by the wolf-headed Anubis, and with the family kneeling at the tomb, the funeral ceremony began. It certainly seems as though anything upon which it was necessary to shower so much care and attention might at least be left undisturbed to carry out its last wishes.

But few, indeed, are the tombs which have been found previously untouched. Dr. Elliot Smith, a prominent English authority on Egyptology, tells of entering the tomb of an Egyptian queen and of finding evidence that the body had been robbed some 300 or 400 years before.

Excavations Reveal Much.

One clever writer points out that it is far from becoming for the present-day excavators who are emptying the tombs as rapidly as possible to rail indignantly at the ghoulies of the past. But he overlooks the fact that while the latter robbed for the loot alone, the scientists of today are gaining nothing personally, but are, instead, giving both effort and money unlimited, and what they are attaining for the world of science is of inestimable value. It is only possible to guess at all what is lost to us in papyrus destroyed, and vignettes ruined by careless thieves. With them, much unknown in antiquity might have been brought to light. Dr. Reich tells us that a great part of the priceless papyrus scrolls by which we have come to know the past, has been taken from tombs.

Up until 1913, there has been excavated by digging in the Necropolis at Thebes, 22 private tombs—not of kings. The greater part of these had at some time been entered previously by vandals.

How particularly clever must King Tutankhamen have been to have outwitted, almost alone of all his fellows, not only the people of his own time, but posterity for 3,200 years! This stands out especially when we know that he had with him in his tomb an unusual amount of furnishings and valuables; in fact, it appears that the entire palace was emptied, and the contents taken to his hiding place. This, we are told, was due to the fact that he left behind him no heir.

There is a bit of irony of fate in all (Continued on Page 4.)

BRIEF TEXAS NEWS

FROM OVER
THE STATE

PARADE FEATURES TRADE DAY.

The monthly trade day that has become a regular Milam county event at Cameron, was featured recently by a parade of decorated floats. The merchants vied with each other in their moving displays and many really very beautiful exhibits were made.

$10,000 A YEAR ALLOWED DISABLED WORLD WAR VETERANS.

The House and Senate May 16 passed finally an appropriation of $10,000 a year for the Adjutant General's department, to employ and care for disabled veterans of the World War.

EVEN BURROS ARE DIPPED.

Burros are dipped regularly just as are cows on the Yturria burro reservation between Brownsville and Boca Chica. This is done as a precautionary measure to keep ticks from spreading to the cattle. They are dipped every 18 days and frequently as many as 1,500 are dipped at once time.

EL PASO'S GOLDEN JUBILEE.

El Paso celebrated in May the fiftieth anniversary of the city's incorporation. Thousands of visitors gathered there to participate in the festivities. Indians came from their reservations and with the military from Fort Bliss helped to make the street pageant one of the finest ever seen in this state.

PIONEER RANCHMAN DIES.

John R. Lewis, pioneer ranchman and credited with being the first man to introduce pure-bred Hereford cattle in west Texas, in 1888, died at Sweetwater April 28th, in his 81st year. For many years it was the custom of Mr. Lewis to entertain all the Confederate Veterans in his section on the anniversary of his birthday.

A GOOD CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN PLAN.

The civic league of Clarksville inaugurated a successful spring clean-up campaign by offering free passes to local picture shows to boys and girls who gathered the largest number of empty tin cans in one week. Tin cans are the favorite breeding places of mosquitoes and flies.

PIONEER CELEBRATES 92ND BIRTHDAY.

Jim Pickard, a Parker County pioneer, celebrated his ninety-second birthday with a family reunion May 16. There were 145 relatives present, including members of the family from California, New Mexico, and Johnson, Tarrant, Dallas, Palo Pinto, Jack, Jones and Parker counties. Following religious services, dinner was served to all the relatives.

TOES AND FINGERS CUT OFF.

A little Mexican boy was born in El Paso a few weeks ago with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, according to attending physicians. The city health officer pointed out to the fond parents that the extra fingers and toes would not be useful in any way, but would prove a hindrance, so they consented to have them amputated. And now the little baby has only ten fingers and ten toes, just like any other normal baby.

VICTORY AFTER DEATH.

Representative Lee J. Rountree was author of a measure appropriating $600,000 for a flood control and reclamation survey which was passed at the last regular session of the Texas legislature. An effort was made at the called session to repeal the act and Rountree was fighting the repeal, apparently making a losing fight. When he recently dropped dead on the floor of the house, authors of the repeal bill at once dropped their fight.

IRON ORE USED IN ROAD BUILDING.

Iron ore, found in northwestern Louisiana, has proven of great value in road building in that state and, in some localities where it has been used, has effected a saving of $2,000 to $3,000 a mile in the cost of construction. Highway engineers in Louisiana have been using the ore as a binder instead of sand clay and have found it far superior to that material in many instances.

Many Texas counties have abundance of iron ore and the successful use of it in Louisiana for road building is worthy of consideration by highway commissioners.

TRADER IN WORMS.

Frank Fleming is a 10-year-old boy of Stamford, Texas, who is doing a profitable and unique business in worms. He carries worms in stock for fishermen and sells them at a substantial profit. During the winter and early spring months, before the fishermen are ready to start out, he digs worms and puts them into small boxes filled with the same dirt in which the worms were found, and provides them with what they want to eat. Then when the fishing season opens he has a large supply on hand, and is ready to fill all orders at a moment's notice. He says he carries the best in his line and his customers appear to find the worms good bait, for they return to him again and again.

GALVESTON TO EXTEND SEAWALL.

The federal government has allotted $670,000 for the extension of the east end seawall at Galveston and also to increase the width of the Galveston sea channel to 1,200 feet and the depth to 30 feet. The port of Galveston today is recognized as one of the greatest in the world in exports of cotton and grain, and it has been found necessary to increase facilities for ships to enter and leave it.

GEN. SAM HOUSTON MONUMENT BILL PASSES SENATE.

By a vote of 18 to 7 the Texas Senate May 7 passed finally the bill by Senator Murphy appropriating $25,000 for the erection of a monument to Gen. Sam Houston at Houston. The sum is to be met with an appropriation of $50,000 by the citizens of Houston.

It will be sixty-five feet high and the base will bear the names of the soldiers of Houston's army at San Jacinto.

TEXAS STATE PARK ASSOCIATION FORMED.

The Texas State Park Association has been organized at Austin for the purpose of encouraging and assisting in the establishment of a system of State parks as recommended by Governor Neff in a message to the Legislature May 1. The association will collect information on park sites and solicit lands for park uses. D. E. Colp of San Antonio was elected chairman of the organization and F. M. Marndon of San Antonio secretary.

EMBLEM FOR WEST TEXAS.

West Texas proposes to have an emblem all her own to be displayed along with the Stars and Stripes and the Lone Star of Texas. A design by W. E. Blanton of San Angelo, approved by the executive committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and recommended at the annual convention for adoption throughout West Texas, is an oblong design, the upper half of blue and the lower of red, with an orange semi-sun rising just above the dividing line of the field colors, the radiant beams sparkling into a blue background.

PLANT PECAN TREES FOR SHADE TREES.

"Pecan Trees for Shade Trees," has been the slogan for many years of Col. P. L. Downs, vice president of the First National Bank of Temple. Colonel Downs advocates the planting of pecan trees not only for their shade value, but for the nuts they yield. He plants annually a dozen or more pecan trees around the schools, churches, parks and parsonages of Temple. The native nut, if planted, says Colonel Downs, will not mature into a nut-bearing tree until twelve or fifteen years, but the budded, or grafted tree will bear within two or three years.

FAST WORKING CAMERAMAN.

In this day of marathon contests, of endurance dancers and piano players, quantity waffle eaters and coffee drinkers and long-time skaters, a cameraman in San Antonio has made himself a world's record in picture producing. During a recent dancing fete he took pictures while it was at its height and had 100 copies ready to sell to the merry-makers before the dance was over. He took a picture of a luncheon and within 32 minutes had 200 pictures ready to hand the guests. No rival so far has been heard from as trying to beat his record.

PRISON POPULATION IN TEXAS REACHES 3,846.

The prison population of the Texas State penitentiary system has reached 3,846, which is the highest number attained at any time during the last five years. This number is an increase of 1,346 over and above that of Jan. 31, 1921.

The distribution of prisoners is as follows: Huntsville prison, 457; Asylum, 21; Senior State Farm, 116; Bassett Blakely State Farm, 148; Blue Ridge State Farm, 244; Clemens State Farm, 374; Darrington State Farm, 240; Eastham State Farm, 312; Ferguson State Farm, 160; Goree State Farm (women), 75; Harlem State Farm, 302; Imperial State Farm, 282; Ramsey State Farm, 526; Retrieve State Farm, 206; Shaw State Farm, 158, and Wynne State Farm, 126.

THIS VETERAN RESTLESS IN SPRINGTIME.

"Private" George W. Williams, a Confederate veteran who saw service with the old "Tom Green" regiment and fought in the Battle of Galveston, is domiciled during the cold winter months at the Confederate Veterans' Home in Austin, but when spring comes the roving fever gets into his veins and he starts on a tour of the state. He moves quietly from place to place until late in the fall, when the increasing cold weather drives him back to the shelter of the home. He is a preacher, a lecturer and a jack-of-all-trades, so he is never in fear of getting stranded. He is now on his annual pilgrimage, recently was in Galveston and Houston, and then turned his footsteps towards the northern part of the state.

WIFE OF CHIEF QUANAH PARKER DIES.

Mrs. Weckeah Parker, wife of the former great chief of the Comanche Indians, Quanah Parker, for whom the town of Quanah, Texas, was named, died at Lawton, Okla., May 16, at the home of Mrs. E. H. Clark, one of her daughters.

Mrs. Parker leaves five daughters, twenty grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

CROSS COUNTRY PARADE IS PLANNED.

A cross-country parade is planned preliminary to the annual meeting of the Colorado-Gulf Highway Association at Alvarado, June 27-28. The parade is to start at Colorado Springs, Colo., and will move on schedule from point to point, picking up at each place additional parties for the procession. Each car will carry banners advertising the town from which it starts. By the time the parade reaches its destination it is expected to be several miles in length.

KANGAROO COURT IN JAIL.

Prisoners in the Dallas County jail have instituted a kangaroo court which makes a break in the monotony of jail life. W. S. Scrivener, serving time in connection with the sensational Jackson street postoffice robbery in Dallas in January, 1921, has just been re-elected "judge" of the Kangaroo Court of Tier No. 1. New prisoners are hauled before the court and always found "guilty." If they have money to pay their fines, they must provide the tier with "smokes" and other luxuries; if they have no "smokes" or money they serve sentence by sweeping and mopping floors and making up beds.

SWAT THE MOSQUITOES.

An anti-mosquito campaign was inaugurated in Texas a few years ago and in many parts of the state, especially in Central and South Texas prosecuted vigorously. It is to be continued this year with redoubled vigilance, according to reports that have come to the state health department. Some portions of the state have received serious setbacks because of the havoc wrought by the mosquitoes, and those communities that have been waging a relentless fight against the pest are now making splendid progress.

SHOW UP THE LIQUOR.

It is the belief of Bracey Melton, field agent for the prohibition forces in South Texas, that the surest way to enforce prohibition is to show up the filthy conditions under which "bootleg" liquor is made, the poisonous ingredients that go into it and its effect on a man's physical constitution. He would show how "Scotch" is made by mixing creosote with the raw corn whisky. He would have displays made in prominent places in each city so that persons might see what sort of stuff they bought at bootleg prices to put into their stomachs. "Such a disclosure would put a crimp in the trade pretty quick," he said.

WOMEN MUST DO THEIR DUTY.

Women must do their duty by voting on every possible occasion and by using their influence to have the laws obeyed, according to Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in a recent address before the women's biennial convention. She insists it is a first duty of women to pay their poll taxes and vote, and then to arouse public opinion to the necessity of observance of law. "We should not only abide by the law ourselves, but permit no jest to pass our lips concerning its violation by others," she said. "If a law is bad, the ideal way to secure its repeal is to enforce it."

CHAMPIONS MUST PAY.

It doesn't pay to boast of being a champion gamester in the Dallas corporation court. A negro arraigned recently told the judge he had shot craps until he had put "all dem niggers to sleep" and then had practiced awhile by himself.

"You are a marathon dice shooter, then?" suggested the judge.

"Reckon I is, Sah," replied the expert.

"Very well. The usual charge for shooting craps is ten dollars, but champions always pay a little more, so just step over to the clerk's desk and hand him fifteen dollars. We always try to treat the champions properly."

TEXAS RATTLESNAKE FARM.

Down in South Texas, near Brownsville, is the rattlesnake farm of W. A. King, said to be the only farm in the world where the deadly reptiles are bred, raised and shipped to fill orders. King handles the snakes with his naked hands, which he says is the only way. He has been bitten many times, but claims to have a sure antidote in a serum that he obtained from Brazil and which is injected into the blood. King has spent a number of years experimenting with rattlesnakes and other reptiles and says it is a fascinating work, although he never lets the snakes charm him. He has orders for snakes coming in all the time and says he has built up a profitable business.

"TEXAS UNDER SIX FLAGS."

"Texas Under Six Flags" was staged at Brownwood, in a great street parade, on San Jacinto Day, in which thousands of people participated.

TEXAS LEADS.

There are 2,819,000 miles of highways in the United States, of which Texas has the greatest mileage, totaling 182,816, and Kansas is the next largest with 124,143.

GALVESTON RADIO FAN TRANSMITS SIGNALS NEARLY 11,000 MILES.

E. W. Rouse of Galveston, an amateur radio fan, established a new long-distance amateur radio record by transmitting signals nearly half way around the world.

The message, from a ship wireless operator, stated that Rouse's message was heard 100 miles southeast of Ceylon, in the Indian Ocean, approximately 11,000 miles distant.

TEXAS HOUSE AND SENATE

The extra thirty-day session of the Thirty-eighth Legislature, called by the governor, terminated Monday night, May 14. Besides the revenue bills passed, there were a number of bills of general effect which passed both houses. Some important bills introduced in the session died on the calendar for want of time to consider and from other various causes. The bills which finally passed both houses are as follows:

- S. B. 1. Appropriating $80,000 to pay mileage and per diem of the session.
- S. B. 2. Appropriating $30,000 to pay contingent expenses of the session.
- S. B. 3. Making appropriations for the support of the State educational institutions.
- S. B. 18. Appropriating $15,000 for Red River boundary marking survey.
- S. B. 20. Appropriating $20,000 for additional inspectors of the State Stock Sanitary Commission.
- S. B. 21. Creating a new supreme judicial district and locating the court of appeals at Eastland.
- S. B. 29. Emergency and supplemental appropriations.
- S. B. 31. Appropriations to meet deficiencies.
- S. B. 32. Appropriations for the State departments.
- S. B. 44. Prohibiting negroes voting in Democratic primaries.
- S. B. 45. Permitting street car lines and interurbans to operate jitney lines and buses within five miles of the corporate limits.
- S. B. 47. Increasing fees of Tax Collectors in collecting motor licenses.
- S. B. 49. Increasing the salary of the State Tax Commissioner from $2,000 to $4,000 per annum.
- S. B. 51. Increasing municipal bonds signed by retiring public officials.
- S. B. 54. Remitting for twenty-five years State and county taxes in Warton and Matagorda Counties, to be used in constructing a forty-mile channel to the sea around the raft in the Colorado River.
- S. B. 55. Prescribing the method of holding elections to organize water improvement districts.
- S. B. 57. Extending the time on a certain oil and gas permit in San Jacinto Bay.
- S. B. 62. Providing for the formation of lightning districts.
- S. B. 63. Changing the method of capital punishment from hanging to electrocution.
- S. B. 69. Authorizing condemnation for facilities for removing shell and gravel under State permits.
- S. B. 71. Authorizing separate tax assessments by district Tax Assessors in independent school districts.
- S. B. 72. Validating a number of school districts.
- S. B. 73. Creating a State Park Board to further the creation of State parks.
- S. B. 74. Abolishing all special funds in the State Treasury, except the Highway and the Game, Fish and Cysticercarial funds.
- S. B. 75. For the erection of a monument in Houston to Gen. Sam Houston, appropriating $25,000.
- S. B. 82. Creating a separate State Department of Bankruptcy.
- S. B. 90. Empowering Board of Control to use unexpended balances in completing American Legion Memorial Sanatorium at Kerrville.
- S. B. 91. Creating Texas Historical Board.
- S. B. 92. To pay miscellaneous claims against the State.
- S. B. 98. Fixing the method of non-resident guardians handling the Texas property of non-resident minors.
- S. B. 101. Simplifying the method of registering municipal bonds in the Comptroller's department and validating certain registrations.
- S. B. 1. Imposing a 2 per cent tax on gross oil production.
- H. B. 5. Appropriations for the judiciary.
- H. B. 6. $25,000 emergency appropriation for Adjutant General's Department.
- H. B. 7. Appropriation to supplement school fund for ensuing two fiscal years.
- H. B. 10. Inheritance tax.
- H. B. 12. Collection of delinquent taxes.
- H. B. 20. Injunctions against places used for gambling, intoxicating and social evil.
- H. B. 23. Appropriation to aid rural schools.
- H. B. 25. Making provision of over a quart of liquor per capita evidence of violation of the prohibition law and otherwise making prohibition statute more drastic.
- H. B. 33. Unlawful for intoxicated person to drive automobile on streets of incorporated cities.
- H. B. 41. Appropriations for eleemosynary institution.
- H. B. 51. Invalide contracts for free textbooks.
- H. B. 60. Emergency maintenance of highways to meet requirements of federal law.
- H. B. 69. Extending oil and gas permits on lands which are under control or have been under control of a Federal receiver appointed by United States Supreme Court.
- H. B. 71. Regulating bonds of navigation and canal commissioners.
- H. B. 76. Providing for organization of pools by banking corporations and co-operative associations composed of producers and agricultural products and live stock.
- H. B. 78. Requiring payment of interest on deposits required by water, light, gas and telephone companies.
- H. B. 108. Gasoline tax to be paid by wharfmen.
- H. B. 114. Create commission on pure-bred cotton seed.
- H. B. 115. Collection of delinquent taxes of levee districts.
- H. B. 117. "Blue Sky Law" regulating sale of stock.
- H. B. 151, 152 and 154. Companion measures, providing laws in this State whereby citizens of Texas may obtain the benefits of loans under the Anderson Federal Credit Law, particularly applicable to farm and home loans, to provide a low rate of interest on long-time payments.
- H. B. 120. Tax on coin-operated vending machines.
- H. B. 236. Free railroad transportation for ministers of the gospel.
- H. B. 75. Citizens who are qualified electors who shall reach the age of 21 after Feb. 1 and before the following election shall be entitled to vote without payment of poll tax.
- H. B. 77. Condemnation of material for road construction.
- H. B. 110. Regulating packing and marking of packages and containers.
- H. B. 126. Establishing uniform grades and packs for fruits and vegetables and requiring contents to be noted on outside.
- H. B. 150. Bonding and regulating private employment agencies.

POEMS OF LONE STAR STATE ARE COLLECTED.

The history of Texas, as told by Texas poets from 1792 to 1923, is told in a volume of Texas verse, "Voice of the Southwest," which has been compiled and edited by Hilton R. Greer of Dallas.

The book is designed to meet the needs of both school, public and private collections.

CATTLE THIEVES ACTIVE ON BORDER.

Cattle and stock thieves are operating more extensively on the Mexican border between Laredo and Brownsville than in a number of years, according to Ranger Captain Wright. Bands of thieves from Mexico cross the Rio Grande at night, steal cattle and horses and make quick return to Mexican soil, Capt. Wright reported.

THINK OF BREWSTER COUNTY.

Brewster County, in Southwest Texas, bordering on the Rio Grande, claims to be the largest county in Texas and in the United States. It has 600 acres of land for each inhabitant; raises thousands of head of livestock of every kind; raises fruits, vegetables and grain in great variety and contains somewhere within its recesses most every kind of mineral than can be named. If a wall should be built around the county, according to one of its oldest inhabitants, Brewster county would be self-sustaining.

LOST IN A STORM.

An aged woman, "Grandma" Stephenson, of Bellevue, was lost in a storm recently and showed endurance and bravery remarkable for one of her years. She was on the way from the home of one son to the home of another when the storm crashed down. She lost her way and during the entire night wandered through woods, across creeks and ravines and into the thick brush, and was found later by her sons, who had organized a search party. She suffered no ill effect from her adventure.

STUDENTS AT UNIVERSITY.

The total enrollment of students for the long sessions in the University of Texas since it first opened its doors in 1883 has reached 50,275, but of these only 6,500 have received degrees. The College of Arts and Sciences awarded the largest number of these degrees, 3,524; the Law School awarded 1,965; the Colleges of Engineering and Graduate School each averaged about 500 degrees. The School of Medicine at Galveston, affiliated with the University since 1892, has been attended by 7,829 students and 1,646 have been graduated.

ROBBING TOMBS OF EGYPTIAN KINGS.

this. The King was practically without wealth of his own, and according to some authorities, even without royal birth. All his possessions he had probably inherited from his father-in-law, who was probably also to be his brother. But poor as he was, he was able after his brief reign of not more than eight years to take with him into the happy hunting grounds much more than previous kings were able to do. And by a twist of circumstances, he was able to preserve it untouched, to bring him fame, after 30 centuries.

This Antedates Tut.

It is never possible even to imagine what wonderful and thrilling and priceless things may be brought to light when you start to dig in this land of bygone splendor. Thebes and Babylon were flourishing cities ages before "ancient Greece" was even dreamed of. And the land thereabouts is rich in both treasure and lore buried under the dust of thousands of years. According to reports, the world's next sensation is likely to come from Mesopotamia, where an expedition sent out by the University of Pennsylvania has been digging since last October. Word has been received of their discovery of a temple which antedates King Tutankhamen by several centuries. It is believed that Nebuchadnezzar, the great king of Babylon, found this temple so old even in his day, that he made extensive repairs to restore it. One thousand years previous to Nebuchadnezzar is given as the date of the temple, which would make it about 1600 B. C.

The country covered by the excavations of the University of Pennsylvania expedition lies across Arabia from the land of King Tut. It is about 160 miles from Bagdad, and was once known as Ur of the Chaldees. It was here that Abraham lived before the Lord sent him into the land of Canaan. Has he left a message for scientists to transmit to the world of today?

Are we soon to be electrified by intimate contact with the everyday life of Lot and Abraham and Noah, and a host of others which have seemed to us as dim shadowy figures in the distant past?

We are reminded that somewhere in this vicinity lies buried the world's first library, written at least 5,000, and one writer declares 10,000 years ago.

A Little Fun

Jokes to Make You Laugh

BUT DID HE BUY SEVERAL?
Bill—Did Dan kill the fatted calf when his prodigal son came home?
Sam—He was goin' to but the boy wouldn't let him; he took the animal to the state fair and won a hat full of ribbons and sold him for enough to buy several fatted calves.

MULES AND US.

Governor Allen, of Kansas, said at a Topeka picnic:
"I have often noticed that the people who do all the carping and criticizing and trouble-making—the Lenins and Trotskys of our land—are people who do very little work. In short, loafers, both rich and poor."
"A mule," the governor added—"a mule can't pull while he's kicking and he can't kick while he's pulling."

HIS MALADY.

Judge (swearing in the jury): L. S. Smith?
Smith: I beg to be excused, your honor, on account of sickness.
Judge: Well, you don't look sick. I think you'd better stay.
Smith: All right, sir, it was just for the others that I was asking it. I've got the smallpox.
Judge (hastily to the sheriff): Take this man to the pest house!

A BUDDING ROMANCE.

There was hardly even standing room in the crowded tram, but a young woman wedged her way just inside the door. Each time the car made a sudden forward lurch she fell back, and three times she landed in the arms of a portly man who was standing on the platform. The third time it happened, he said quietly, "Excuse me; but hadn't you better stay here?"

THE SONG OF THE WASHED-OUT ROAD.

The following paraphrase of Longfellow's poem hangs on the wall of the New York State Highway Commissioner's office:
Hordes of autos now remind us
We should build our roads to stay,
And departing leave behind us
Kind the rains don't wash away.
When our children pay the mortgage
Father's made to haul their loads,
They'll not have to ask the question,
"Here's the bonds, but where's the roads?"

PLAYING SAFE.

The dear old lady entered the drug store and looked doubtfully at the youthful clerk behind the counter.
"I suppose," she began, "that you are a properly qualified druggist?"
"Yes, madame."
"You have passed all the examinations?"
"Certainly."
"Never poisoned anybody by mistake?"
"Not to my knowledge."
"Very well, then," she replied, heaving a sigh of relief and laying a coin on the counter. "You may give me a nickel's worth of cough drops."

ASKED FOR THE PROOF

Signor Garlicko caused much merriment when he came forward one night to apologize for the non-appearance of the great soprano, Madame Ella Vator, who was ill with a severe cold.
"Madam Vator ees a leetle horse," he said.
Noticing a ripple of laughter among the audience he repeated the statement that Mme. Vator was "a leetle horse, a leetle horse; had a leetle colt."
Whereupon a jolly occupant of the gallery brought down the house by crying out:
"Well, then, trot her out!"

THE MAN WITH AN ALIBI

One of the men in the smoking-car was an expert, he explained, on cities. He could look at a man and tell from what town he hailed. To his discerning eye, aided by his profound and discriminating judgment, each city put upon its inhabitants a certain bearing or label which never deceived him.
"You, for instance," he declared to the man on his right, "are from Chicago."
The Chicagoan admitted the fact.
"And you," he said to the gentleman on his left, "are from Cincinnati."
Again he was right.
"Now, you," he said turning to the third man, "are from Arkansas."
"No, sirree!" objected that individual in hot resentment. "I've had the flu! That's what makes me look that way."

"What's de name of dis infant?" demanded the colored parson who was officiating at the christening of Mandy's latest offspring. "Her name am Opium Bryant," was the firm reply. The parson protested: "Opium ain't no fit name for a gal!" "Well, it fits dis gal," said Mandy, "for dey say opium comes from wild poppy, and dis chile's poppy shore am wild."

PECULIAR CORRESPONDENCE.

Some peculiar correspondence gets through Uncle Sam's mail. Here's a copy of a bona fide letter received by the firm to whom it is addressed:
Red Hill, Ohio, Oct. 2, 19—
Cleveland Pump Co., Cleveland, O.

Gentlemen: I get the pump which I by from you, but why for gods sake you doan send me no handle. I loose to me customer. Wats the use a pump when she doan have no handle. Shure think you doan treet me right. I rote ten days and my customer he holler for water like hell from the pump. You know he is hot summer now and the win he no blow the pump. She got no handle so what the hell I goan to do with it. Doan send me the handle pretty quick I send her back and I goan order some pump from Myers Companies. Good by Yours truly, Antonio Dutre.
Since I rite I find the dam handle in the box. excuse me.

UNCLE SI.

"That was Susie Bolt jest went out," explained Uncle Si Perkins, as I sat beside him on the counter. "Reckon you noticed she was laughin'. I seed her an' some other women standin' in front o' Billy Hart's house las' night, an' she was explainin' how come 'em stoppin' there."
"Billy an' Mary Walker was married las' week, you know, an' they're livin' in the house Billy's ma give 'em. Right purty place, too."
"Well, Billy was a-settin' in a rocker an' Mary was a-settin' in his lap, an' they was kissin' right frequent an' hadn't pulled down the shades. These women passin' by on the way home from choir practice seed 'em, an' stopped to enjoy the show."
"I kind o' like folks what don't pull down the shades. You know they ain't doin' nothin' to be ashamed of."
"It's natural fo' lots o' folks to be sensitive, I reckon, but I ain't never yet knowed a man what made a practice o' hidin' his good deeds. Folks jest don't do it. They may mean to keep the left hand from knowin' what the right is doin', but they don't take no special pains to keep the neighbors from knowin'—not unless the right hand is up to meanness."
"I believe folks would be a sight decenter if the wa'n't no shades, an' all of us had to live right out in the open. I ain't never heard of a goldfish a-doin' no meanness."

AUTO HINTS

According to motorcycle officers, the proper adjustment of headlights would mean a reduction of 50 per cent in the number of night accidents.

Never use water to cool a bronze bearing. The best method is to wait for the bearing to cool in the ordinary course, but, if this is impossible, use oil to cool the part.

Of the 600,000,000 pounds of crude rubber imported into the United States each year, 490,000,000 pounds, or 81 per cent, were required last year for automobile tires.

Of the 103 persons killed in railroad accidents in Texas during 1921, careless driving of automobiles was the cause of 78 deaths upon railroad crossings. All told, there were 200 railroad accidents in the state during the year, and 136 of these were due to automobiles.

Never come out of nor enter an alley, stable, garage, "gas" station, parking yard, or driveway, except very slowly and giving warning, especially if a sidewalk is to be crossed.

Even though a brake lining is made of asbestos, which is virtually incombustible, a dragging brake is fully capable of setting fire to rear wheels, it is pointed out by J. W. Perry, general manager of the automotive department of Johns-Manville, Inc., in urging upon automobile drivers the importance of periodic examinations of brakes and their mechanisms.

"If brakes are permitted to drag," said Mr. Perry, "the brake lining and brake drums will be worn down unnecessarily. If the drag is pronounced, sufficient frictional heat may be generated when the car is on the road to burn the paint off the brake drums and surrounding parts and in certain cases, we have found actually starting a fire."

TEXAS FARM NEWS

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

Oat harvesting began in Parker county May 25th. Recent rains make prospects good for a bumper crop.

A cow and bull valued at $500.00, belonging to W. E. Peterson, a Shorthorn breeder, were killed by lightning near Justin, Denton County.

The highest price paid for mohair for this spring clip was paid to L. Schwartz and F. A. Piper Company of Uvalde for their spring holdings.

A vicious rooster attacked the little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Williams, living near Tenaha, Shelby County, spurring him in the eye, and putting it out.

John A. Whitehurst, President of the Oklahoma State Board of Agriculture, estimated the wheat crop of that state as 8,000,000 bushels in excess of last year.

Cut worms are ravaging cotton fields in Falls county. It is said the worms sever the stalk, and the prevalence of the pest is attributed to dry weather.

Blackbirds have done much harm to early planted corn in Wood County. Many farmers soaked corn in strychnine and scattered it over their fields—this poison killing thousands of birds.

Alexander D. Mebane, who added the fifth lock to the ordinary four locks in a boll of cotton by long experiments in pollination, died at his home in Lockhart, April 30th, aged 67 years.

Rains over a wide area of the Panhandle practically assure bumper crops in the South Plains country and have made conditions ideal for planting cotton and other crops.

A carload of steers sold on the Fort Worth market April 28th at $9.50, which is the top price for this year. The steers averaged 733 pounds in weight, and were the property of Mr. Simonda of Cleburne.

The Texas berry crop of East and Northwest Texas has matured so rapidly that thousands of dollars will be lost by the growers unless pickers can be secured to gather the crop. Many owners advertised for 100 families to pick berries.

Cut worms have destroyed many acres of cotton in South Texas. Much of the cotton will have to be replanted. Altogether the outlook for a bumper cotton crop in this part of the state is not as hopeful as it seemed earlier in the season.

Texas produces approximately 1,625,000 tons of cotton seed annually, of which not more than 20 per cent is consumed by the planters. The remainder of the tonnage finds its way to the mills for manufacture into oil, cake and hulls.

A. G. Rodgers, a well-known farmer living south-east of Paris, owned a mule that died recently at the age of thirty-five years. Mr. Rodgers made 24 crops with the aid of this mule, but for the past two years had not let the mule do any work.

G. E. Blewett of the Blewett Grain Company of Fort Worth, says that the Government's report indicates a wheat yield for Texas of 21,733,000 bushels. The yield last year for Texas was given at 9,992,000 bushels.

Fifty cents a pound has been paid for approximately 525,000 pounds of short, eight-month wool of the 1923 spring clip, which H. P. Buell of Boston has purchased in the Sonora, Ozona and Del Rio sections for Studley & Emery of Boston.

The first South Texas watermelons reached Northern Texas markets the early part of June. The $5 charge for slatting cars on interstate shipments of melons will not have to be met by the shippers this year, by reason of a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

M. C. Counts, Agricultural Agent of Tarrant County, recommends the combination of pecans and hay as the best crops for the utilization of Trinity River bottom lands which are subject to overflow. Mr. Counts is making demonstrations of budding paper shell variety of pecans on native stock.

Five silver cups, each an award for a breed championship on hogs exhibited at the 1923 Southwestern Exposition and Live Stock Show held in Fort Worth in March, have been received by the Animal Husbandry Department of the A. & M. College of Texas, and have been placed on exhibition in the Animal Husbandry building.

In the last three months a total of 100 cars of poultry, eggs and hides have been shipped from Denison. A carload of eggs contains 20,000 dozen, and is valued at about $2,800. A car of butter contains about 25,000 pounds and is valued at $7,000, while a car of live chickens is valued at about $4,000.

Farm Agent C. C. Morris of Grayson County, assisted by R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the extension department of Texas A. & M. College, are making plans to plant a number of boll weevil control test plots in different parts of this county. A number of cotton growers will be requested to manage the boll weevil control plots in accordance with directions furnished by A. & M. College. This work is in the form of a demonstration as to the best methods of boll weevil control work.

By producing 12,591 pounds of milk and 752.77 pounds of butter-fat, Majesty's Ida May 384015, owned by Ed. C. Lasater of Falfurrias, has become the Texas champion senior four-year-old Jersey superseding a stablemate, Christel's Catherine of Falf 366096, which cow held the record with 731.32 pounds of butter-fat. Each month on test, Ida May produced in excess of fifty pounds of butter-fat, and in March of last year produced as high as 68.91 pounds.

The pecan crop of the Guadalupe valley, through the Cuero Section, is reported very promising.

Fifteen hundred farmers from practically all counties of North Texas took part in the annual barbecue at State Agricultural Experiment Substation No. 6, Denton County, staged by the Denton Chamber of Commerce May 17th. It was declared the most successful gathering of its kind ever held there.

Heavy rains which have fallen over almost all sections of Texas, while of general benefit to growing crops, have done considerable damage by erosion of uplands, overflowing of lowlands and delay in the planting of crops, necessitating a great deal of replanting. Hail storms have also inflicted some damage.

A report on the goat-raising industry in Texas, prepared by H. H. Schutz, live stock statistician of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, contains the following information:

From the small beginning made when Dr. J. B. Davis imported a few head of Angora goats into South Carolina in 1849 and when Col. W. W. Haupt of Hays County, brought the pure-bred herd of Col. Richard Peters of Atlanta to Texas in 1853, the industry has grown until today it represents approximately 1,665,000 head in Texas alone. According to the census figures the number of goats in the United States has increased 85 per cent and in Texas 180 per cent during the last twenty years.

At the present time the Angora goat industry in Texas is centered in twenty-four counties in the South Central portion of the State. Of the total of 1,665,000 head, these counties contain in the neighborhood of 77 per cent. While many pure-bred goats are to be found in other counties, most of the breeding herds are in this main district. A large number of goats are used for keeping down brush in the east half of the State, and practically every county has from a few hundred to several thousand of these thrifty animals.

For Our Boys and Girls

By AUNT MARY.

STEPHEN F. AUSTIN.

GREAT MEN AND WOMEN.

How different are our modern conveniences, our rapid mode of travel, our beautiful homes and easy life, compared to those few brave people who journeyed from their comfortable homes to find for us this new land—our own beloved state of Texas. We scarcely ever think of the hardships they must have endured, do we? My dear children, just think now in one night's travel we can cover more distance than they covered in a month. They had to ride in uncomfortable covered wagons, drawn by horses or oxen. There were no bridges and often the streams were so swollen by rain they had to wait for many days until the water subsided before they could cross them.

Among these early settlers was Stephen F. Austin; in fact, the first Texas colony was headed by Mr. Austin. He is rightly known as the "Father of Texas."

He was born in Austinville, Virginia, in 1793. His father and fore-fathers were all great lovers of adventure. He was always a good student in school and when he was eleven years old he went to Connecticut to complete his academic course. He graduated from Transylvania University when he was fifteen years old. When he was but twenty years old he was elected to the Legislature of Mississippi, where his family had previously moved. He was annually re-elected for six years. His family then moved to Arkansas, where his father was granted a tract of land in Texas by the Mexican government. With his family and a few followers he came to Texas in 1821. The journey was very difficult and dangerous. Soon after their arrival the father died and left the land and the colony to his son, Stephen. Stephen's great honesty, straight-forwardness and bravery soon won the respect of all the colony. They followed his commands without a question. He was beloved and respected by all. Under his leadership the colony prospered and many more came to join them.

The Mexican government realized his power, over the several colonies of which he was the head, and at one time when a rebellion was talked of he was held by them for the good behavior of the colonies.

When he came to Texas, Nacogdoches was the only settlement between the Sabine River and San Antonio.

He was a hard worker and a faithful friend and statesman.

He died on Christmas day in 1836 at Columbia in Brazoria county. Although a man just in the prime of life, the hardships he had endured helped to hasten his death.

Austin, our state Capital, is named in his honor.

Now, my dear little readers, we must carefully study our wonderful history and our great men. Then we can know how to follow their examples, and maybe we, too, will some day be known as "Great."

Next month I am going to tell you about that great man who played such an important part in our Texas history, and who is no other than "General Sam Houston."

AUNT MARY.

ANIMAL STORIES.

The Eskimo Dog.

This beautiful dog is not only a pet or watch dog, as most dogs are, but is of real service to mankind. All over the extreme northern country they are used in place of horses to draw sleds over the country carrying food and water for explorers, implements and all sorts of supplies needed by the people. They often carry the people on long journeys as it is their only means of transportation, the country being covered with ice and snow the greater part of the year.

These dogs bear a strong resemblance to the gray wolf. The hair of the coat in summer as well as winter, is very long, but during the coldest weather the body grows a fine downy under covering.

While still very young they are put in harness and fastened to a sled. The older dogs help to teach them how to pull. So they grow to be very strong and are able to draw great loads on the sled or sometimes in summer carry supplies in panniers across their backs.

Each dog has its own name. An angry repetition of it usually acts as good as a whip.

Like other dogs, they are faithful and kind. On long expeditions into the interior they are a great comfort and companion to a man. Stories have been told of how sometimes an explorer would get hurt and how his dogs stood guard over him fighting off wild animals which are ever ready to tear him to pieces at their first chance.

They can go without food for a long time and do not seem to mind the cold, often sleeping out of doors when the temperature was 42 and 44 degrees below zero, with as little concern as if the weather was warm.

Their speed is remarkable. One account is of nine dogs that drew one thousand six hundred and eleven pounds for one mile in nine minutes. Another is of seven dogs that ran one mile in four minutes, carrying a sled full of men.

They dread to go into the water and would rather take a severe beating than do so.

The long whip and the voice serve in the place of reins and the driver can thus make them turn a corner as carefully as a horse. The driver usually sits on the front part of the vehicle and jumps off when necessary to remove obstructions in the path and also guides it by pressing either foot on the ice.

Many interesting and many sad stories are told of this far northern country about the people and their useful animal, the dog. There is a beautiful story handed down to us by the Indians of their ancestors. While of course it isn't true, yet it is quite interesting.

The story goes as follows:

"The Chapawees, as descendants, were united in one family, but at length a youth was accidentally killed in a quarrel and as a result they scattered all over the country taking different places as their homes. One Indian took a dog with him and settled on the border of a lake. In time the dog had several cunning little puppies. When the Indian went out to fish he would tie them up to keep them from straying. Several times as he approached the tent he thought he heard children laughing, but when he got inside only the puppies were inside as usual. One day he determined to investigate. So he pretended to go hunting but in reality he hid near the tent. He again heard the voices. On rushing in he saw beautiful children playing and laughing with the dog skins lying on the floor. He threw the skins in the fire and the children grew up to be ancestors of the Dog-Rib-Nation."

LETTER ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

This last month I received two perfectly lovely letters from "My Children." How I did enjoy them. More of you must write me and I will answer each one personally.

The following I have heard from this last month:

Miss LaVerne Goodloe, Aspermont, Texas.

Miss Bernice Smith, Scurry, Texas.

Just write, "Aunt Mary, Box 544, Fort Worth Texas." Be sure and enclose a self-addressed envelope.

POEM OF NATURE.

Jewels of Winter.

A million little diamonds,
Twinkling on the trees,
And all the little maidens said,
"A jewel, if you please."

But while they held their hands out-stretched,

To catch the diamonds gay,
A million little sunbeams came,
And stole them all away.

LITTLE GIRLS' COOK BOOK.

I told you that I would give you a nice candy recipe. Well, here it is. This candy is inexpensive and easy to make:

Caramels.

2 cups granulated sugar.
1 1/4 cups syrup.
1/2 cup milk.
1/4 cup butter.
1 teaspoon flavoring (vanilla preferred).

1 cup chopped nuts or raisins (if you have them).

Cook sugar, Karo, milk and butter until it forms a firm ball in cold water. Remove from the fire, add flavoring, nuts or raisins, and pour into greased pans to cool.

RACE AGAINST DEATH.

Robert Neal, called from El Paso to Weatherford by the impending death of his sister, reached her side four hours before she died, being aided in his race against death by an airplane, which was speedier than a railroad train. He was in El Paso when he received the message to hurry to his sister. A train had left three hours before; another was not to leave until several hours later. He chartered an airplane, overtook the train that had left earlier and arrived at his sister's side in time to receive her goodbye. Had he waited for the next train he would have been too late.

Competition is keen and several of the swimmers have been closely contesting this year for the prize.

KINDLY ACT COSTS LIFE.

One of the fourteen men burned to death in the recent fire at the J. K. Hughes-McKie well in Navarro county, gave his life for a friend without knowing it. Louis P. Sheek of Dallas was one of a number of men working on another job. Several of the men were to be laid off, but Sheek, being experienced, was to be retained. He voluntarily gave up his work so that a friend who had a wife to support might be kept on the job in his place. This friend a few days later went to work on the well which was accidentally set on fire

HOME PROBLEMS

GOOD WATER FOR FARM AND SMALL TOWN HOMES.

Last month I finished the discussion of deep and artesian wells, also the "driven well." This month I shall finish the discussion of the water problem with a discussion of springs and cisterns.

Springs are usually found under a slope of a hill and as a rule are supplied by the rain falling on the slope. There are two types, however, and if the supply is correct is an excellent source of water. One type is where the water rises rapidly after a rain and goes down in dry weather. This kind of a spring is to be avoided as this indicates the supply is near at hand and that there is little filtration, hence it is to be highly polluted. One that maintains a fairly even flow in all types of weather usually draws its supply from a distance and is well filtered.

To protect a spring common sense and observation play the biggest role. First of all remove all rubbish from around the spring. Such as dead timber or dead animals, all tin cans, stumps, underbrush or dead leaves, in fact weeds and grass or anything of similar nature. Then dig a trench above the spring as near as practicable. It should be deep and wide. Throw the dirt on the lower side to form a bank. Bring it around the well and lead into the stream at a safe distance below on both sides. Inclosing the spring in a brick masonry or concrete box with the sides brought up for some distance and a pipe provided for the overflow is an excellent protection. If short lengths of iron pipe are placed in the veins when the box is built there is little danger of lessening the flow. A bench or platform should be built under overflow pipe to sit bucket or vessel on. Never dip them into the spring unless perfectly clean outside and in. The top of the box can be water tight. If water is used to cool butter and milk a separate box should be built.

"Cisterns" are worth their "weight in gold" if properly built and protected. They are best lined with cement or galvanized iron and must be absolutely water tight. The covering must be water tight also and constructed similar to that of a well. After a dry spell the first water from the roof should not be allowed to go in the well. This is best taken care of by a valve placed in the "leader." If convenient all stale water should be pumped out. If a bucket is used it must be perfectly clean. If only clean water is allowed to go in the cistern it will keep many weeks.

For further information write me a letter stating full details. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope and avoid asking questions covered in these articles.

LATE FASHIONS.

This child's rompers is very handy to help wear out old dresses. Make the gumples of torn or old clothes. The rompers require 1 3-8 yards of 36-inch wide material and the gumples require 3-4 yards 32-inch material for three-year size. They are very attractive made up with sateen or gingham. Use only plain color schemes.

This is a model of the collars that are so popular this season. It is said "Tex Austin" started the "style" when he took his "cowgirls" to New York from Texas to perform. It is made from any fancy colored silk and is worn around the neck or the hips.

QUESTION BOX

Ques: What are some nice plants for borders? A. L. B., Willis Point.

Ans: I find Ageratum, Dwarf Nasturtium, Petunia, Hardy Pinks, Candy Tuit, Verbena, Marigold and Begonia among the best for borders. However, there are many others just as good.

Ques: Can you give me a recipe for Rhubarb jelly? M. H. Brownwood.

Ans: Yes, I can, and I think it is very good. Cut rhubarb in small pieces, cover with water, cook until soft and strain. Add a quart of apple jelly for each quart of rhubarb juice. Boil for fifteen minutes. To each quart of juice add two-thirds of a pint of sugar and boil until it jellies. A commercial pectin such as "Certo" may be used instead of the apple juice.

Ques: Can you tell me some good climbers that can be started from seed? A. L. Denton.

Ans: Yes, there are some very good ones, such as Cypress Vine, Canary Bird Vine, Morning Glory, Sweet Peas, Japanese Hop, Balloon Vine, Moon Flower, Gourds and Hyacinth Bean.

Ques: What is the contents of an egg? Are they a good food?

Ans: The shell is chiefly composed of calcium carbonate. Inside the shell are two membranes. The white and yolk are composed of water 65 per cent, also protein, fat and ash.

NOTE: I will welcome any question pertaining to the home. Address Box 1012, Fort Worth, Texas. (Mrs.) Margaret Stute.

FOOD.

Its Use to the Body and Preparation Continued.

Last month when I said keep your eye on your pocket-book as well as your stomach, I did not mean for you to deny yourself or family the necessities of a good rounded diet. But, I do believe more people have been killed by too rich a food than by a lack of food.

"Good food" does not mean expensive or rich foods. In my opinion it largely means just the contrary.

First we must summarize what we are eating food for. It is to yield energy, build new tissues, and regulate the body processes. To obtain food that will carry on all this work we must then choose something from each division mentioned in last month's article.

One must take in consideration the average weight and occupation of an individual. For example a man at hard manual labor requires a great deal more food than one who does office work. The man doing hard labor requires muscle building foods. The man at the desk requires another kind of food. A child requires an active out-of-door life. Old people require very little food.

However, do not be misguided that quantity is the only consideration, because I believe quality means more than anything.

A tall, thin person requires more food than a short, fat one. A person with a nervous temperament requires more than one of phlegmatic temperament. More food is required in cold weather than in warm.

No one food is a "perfect food." That is there is no individual substances that contains all that is necessary to a balanced diet. Therefore we must have a variety of all different types in order to be able to meet the demands of the body. The excess use of one kind of food will cause trouble as well as the lack of some food.

(To be continued next month.)

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Mrs. Jane Prentice of Muncie, Ind., sends in this very acceptable and useful hint for the Woman's Page. We wish to thank her and hope others will follow the example.

A FLY PAPER HOLDER.

Made in Two Minutes Without Cost.

A good fly paper holder can be made of cardboard. Cut a piece of heavy cardboard, or two or more thin sheets, 8x14 inches. Place sheet of Tanglefoot or cardboard, fasten four corners with wire paper clips. A half-inch elevation in center of sheet increases the catch of flies. Bend up a piece one-half by six inches in center of cardboard lengthwise.

TESTED RECIPES.

This month our thoughts begin to turn to the canning season. I am going to give you a recipe that has been handed down in my family for several generations and is, I think, the best way of preserving strawberries.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES.

Select only the finest and largest berries, carefully remove stems and all blemishes and wash thoroughly. Measure pound for pound berries and sugar. Place in a porcelain or aluminum kettle a layer of berries and then sugar until all are used. Let stand overnight in a cool place. In the morning bring to a boil and let "simmer" five minutes. Pour in flat vessels, such as cake pans, platters, etc., be sure they are only in a single layer. Pour all the juice over them. Cover with mosquito netting or glass and let stand in the hot sun outdoors until the syrup is jelly like. It will take from twelve to twenty-four hours. If glass is used remove and wipe occasionally. Seal cold in fruit jars with paraffine, rubber and air tight lid.

MORNING DELIGHT.

Select choice strawberries and wash carefully. Do not remove stems. Place around a mound of powdered sugar on individual dishes and serve very cold.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM.

(Individual Rule).

½ cup thin cream (or)
 ¼ cup heavy cream and
 ¼ cup milk)
 ¼ cup strawberries.
 2 tablespoons sugar.
 Speck salt.
 Mash the strawberries with the sugar and allow them to stand five or ten minutes. Add the cream and freeze as any other ice cream.
 Berries may be mashed through a sieve or strained through a cheese-cloth if desired.

GREEN VEGETABLES.

This is the month of our most healthful food, the "green vegetables."

Most of these vegetables need a great deal of work to prepare them properly and long cooking. But it is well worth the time and effort.

"Green peas" must be cooked about two hours. Do not drain off liquid, which should have been boiled down very low. Season with a little flour moistened with milk, salt, pepper and cream. Finish cooking in a double boiler until sauce is thickened over them.

"Green beans" should be cooked from two to three hours. Cook fat bacon with them and season with pepper and salt.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR BIG PICNIC IN CAMERON TUESDAY JULY 3

CAMERON COMETS VS. BRIDGES BEARS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY AT CAMERON

Picnic Is Planned By American Legion, Base Ball Club And Fire Dept.

The American Legion, the Base Ball Club and the Fire Department have proposed that a gigantic picnic be held at Cameron on July 3rd, and have asked the Confederate Veterans, Spanish War Veterans, Commercial Club and other organizations to co-operate with them. The matter was considered at the last meeting of the Commercial Club and a committee appointed to confer with the business men and with committees from the various organizations interested and present recommendations at tomorrow night's meeting of the Commercial Club. It is probable that the committee will report favorably on the proposition and that the picnic will be held.

The date has been fixed for July 3rd, instead of the Fourth because the Fire Racing Team has already agreed to enter the races at Belton on the Fourth, and the Ball Team has scheduled a game with the San Antonio Club of the Texas League on the 3rd. Though the picnic may be held a day ahead of time, it is planned to make it a regular Fourth of July event.

It has been so long since Cameron has had a big picnic that most of the residents have forgotten the occasion; and now that some of our progressive spirits have projected one, they are meeting with unusual encouragement. A number of local and neighboring stockmen have already pledged heaves and other public spirited citizens have offered to furnish various necessities. In this way it is planned to give the picnic at small expense, so that the usual call for money contributions may be avoided.

The committees held their first meeting Monday afternoon and mapped out a tentative plan, appointing sub-committees to canvass the town for donations of meat, etc. Wednesday afternoon a second meeting was held, to which the ladies of the Civic League were also invited, and reports of the sub-committees were heard. Definite proposals were outlined for presentation to the Commercial Club, and it is thought the Club will act favorably on the project tomorrow night.

The plan as tentatively adopted include a big day of varied entertainment, beginning with a grand parade a big barbecue dinner, a speech by Senator Morris Sheppard, Governor Pat Neff, or some other noted orator, a ball game and various other events. The parade will feature decorated automobiles, floats, etc., and will be headed by Cameron's Forty Piece Municipal Band. And of course there will be pretty girls galore. One plan calls for a special section for our friends from the country with prizes for the prettiest cars, etc., but that has not yet been settled. As a means of putting this part of the program through it is requested that all who contemplate entering this

MILAM COUNTY BOY HONORED WITH NAVAL APPOINTMENT

LEONARD MEWHINNEY IS TENDERED APPOINTMENT BY LUTHER JOHNSON.

Leonard Sparks Mewhinney, of Buckholts, valedictorian of the 1923 class, Yoe High School, Cameron, has been nominated principal for appointment to the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, by Luther A. Johnson, Congressman, 6th District. This information was conveyed to Jeff T. Kemp, County Judge of Milam County, Tuesday morning, June 12, 1923.

The people of Milam county feel that Congressman Johnson has made a happy selection and also feel confident that the Appointee will meet the expectations of his friends should he accept the offered honor. Leonard was not only first honor man in the 1923 class but took an active and a leading part in all student activities during the four years of his high school course. He is the second son of Post Master and Mrs. Sam Mewhinney of Buckholts and a descendant of Captain Benjamin Bryant who commanded a company in the battle of San Jacinto and was afterwards Indian Agent under President Sam Houston, at Bryant Station on Little River, at that time the frontier of Texas.

This old veteran and his wife are buried on the banks of Little River near Bryant Station and Leonard Mewhinney's home is within four miles of the old homestead site.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.

Notice is hereby given that teachers' examinations will be held in Cameron on the First Friday and Saturday in July the same being the 6th, and 7th, of July 1923.

All persons desiring to take these examinations are requested to make application to the County Superintendent not later than June 21st 1923. In making application, give your age, color, sex, experience and grade of certificate applying for.

Yours respectfully,

County Superintendent, Milam County

CAMERON COMETS EVEN UP SERIES WITH CALDWELL

Cameron, Texas, June 13.—The Cameron Comets defeated the fast Caldwell team on the local diamond this afternoon by a score of 5 to 1. The win today evened up the series between the two teams, the Caldwell team having won the first game played on the Caldwell diamond earlier in the season for the first and only defeat suffered by the Comets. The teams will meet in the final game of the series on June 30.

Lefty Odom was on the mound for the Comets in today's game and held his opponents to one hit. Only two Caldwell players reached first base, one of these, a base on balls, giving them their only score. "Boss" Sevier for the Comets poled his daily triple. The Comets play Liberty Hill at Bartlett tomorrow and on Friday and Saturday will hook up with Coach Bridges' Baylor Bears.

The Score: R. H. E.
Caldwell.....1 1 3
Cameron.....5 9 0

The Pledge

By Martha Haskell Clark.

"I PLEDGE allegiance to my flag" and all for which it stands,
The cradle-home of Freedom, and hearts of many lands,
And may I never dim its stars with touch of greedy hands!

"One nation, indivisible," one banner, and one soul,
For whom through years of blood and toil our fathers paid the toll,
And may I come to understand the vision of the whole!

"With Liberty and Justice," for each his fighting chance
To prove his worth, and win his dream in battled circumstance,
And may I never bar the way, nor break another's lance!

"I pledge allegiance to my flag," north, south and east and west,
I know not what the years shall bring to put me to the test,
But may I guard it with my life, and serve it with my best!

—THE TARGET.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

Thursday, June 14th, is Flag Day. While the world was in progress the observance of Flag Day was general. Let us be no less patriotic in time of peace. We reprint the following from The Onward:

"On Arch Street, in the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, stands the quaint little wooden structure that seems rather out of place among the high buildings of modern architecture that tower above it on all sides. It is the house where Betsy Ross made the first American flag in June 1777—the birthplace of Old Glory.

No country holds a greater reverence for its flag than does America, and each year the story of "Old Glory" is more carefully studied. In all wars our flag has been gloriously victorious, for the Stars and Stripes have never been conquered. It was the sight of this flag floating over Fort McHenry at Baltimore, Maryland, land, that inspired Frances Scott Key to write our national song, "The Star Spangled Banner." In the National Museum at Washington, D. C., kept and preserved as a priceless relic, is the battered old flag for which Key watched and waited during the early dawn of that memorable morning of September 14, 1814. And when the break of the day came and he saw that the American flag still waved over the fort, his joy expressed itself in two lines of his song:

"Tis the star-spangled banner; oh long may it wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Many pilgrimages are made to the little house of Betsy Ross on Arch Street, which is kept open to the public, for all patriotic Americans love to visit the birthplace of Old Glory, the flag that stands for liberty and equality."

LARGER WATER MAINS BEING LAID IN CAMERON

Work of putting in new water mains by the Cameron Water Power and Light Company began Monday following the signing of the new contract with the City on last Tuesday. A force of about thirty men are employed under the direction of Mr. Guggolz, Superintendent of the Company. All pipe and other materials are now on the ground, and the work is progressing rapidly, with prospect of completion about July 1st.

An eight inch line is being laid up Third Street from Fannin Avenue to Travis Avenue and a six inch line up the same street from Travis to College. On Second Street another eight inch line will be laid from Fannin to Travis, and both of these lines will be tied into the old lines at Houston, Main, Central, Travis and College. A six inch line will be laid up North Central Avenue for eight hundred feet from Third Street, and a four inch line of Twenty-third from Travis to Crockett, thence North on Crockett to the Ike Reynolds property. Other lines will be laid later, and all of the extensions provided for in the new contract will be made by next April, so that the people of Cameron can expect adequate water service in the near future.

In addition to the extension the water company is to install nineteen additional fire plugs placed at points as prescribed by the insurance commission.

The program of improvement will extend until April 1 of 1924, the volume of work making it necessary to grant the extension, taking into consideration that the company is unable at this time to buy sufficient pipe of eight and six inch size necessary to complete the program.

Eight inch mains are to be constructed in the business district on streets approved by the insurance commission and in addition six inch mains are to be laid in two sectors of the residence portions, displacing four inch mains. Four inch mains are to be laid to eliminate a number of dead ends.

On and after conclusion of the contract no mains will be laid smaller than six inch in the residence section of the mercantile district.

The program gives the city ample water for fire protection and the system as approved by the insurance commission is standard for the mercantile districts.

CAMERON COMMERCIAL CLUB.

The following answered roll call.
Officers—C. W. Lawrence, president; Oxsheer Smith, vice president; B. F. Bonds, treasurer, Irvin N. Cleary, acting secretary.

Directors—Robert McLane, J. T. Parma, R. H. McIntosh, John Mangum, T. S. Henderson, Jr., W. O. Newton, Dr. Jas. Watson, S. A. Cottle, Jim Neinaast.

Committee Chairmen—J. W. Coleman, J. W. Joynes, W. M. Cobb, Giles L. Avriett, W. G. Gillis, F. S. Lesovsky.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

T. S. Henderson, Jr., spoke of the work of the committee assigned to an industrial survey of Cameron and Milam county and at his request two additional members were added to his committee, W. O. Newton and J. C. Tucker being appointed.

The Club renewed its support to the Yoe Memorial Fund after an address by F. S. Lesovsky.

Two representatives from the Commercial Club were delegated to confer with the American Legion, Cameron Base Ball Club and Fire Boys concerning the advisability of having a mammoth celebration here the 3rd of July.

A letter about the petition to be presented to the S. A. & A. P. R. Y. from town authorities of Yoakum asking for a change in the train schedule was referred to a special committee.

The Secretary was instructed from a vote without contrary sentiment, to make his minutes in the future, very short and concise by recording in summary, unless otherwise instructed.

Cameron Comets Will Play Bridges Bears On Friday And Saturday

PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL CREATES INTEREST OVER CITY

THESE SERVICES WILL CONTINUE FOR TWO WEEKS MORNING AND EVENING.

The opening service of the evangelistic campaign held under the auspices of the First Presbyterian church of this city, was held Tuesday night, June 12. Rev. Robert Hill, D. D., pastor of the First church, Tyler is leading the meeting. Mrs. C. W. Read, Cameron, is in charge of the song service. Misses Sallie Kate McLane and Dallis Young have established of Day Nursery for the convenience of mothers who wish to attend the services.

Two services are held each day, at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. The night service is held on the church lawn which is comfortably seated and lighted.

The leader, Dr. Hill, is well known to many of the congregation and to the old residents of Cameron as he was a member of the family of Rev. J. T. Sailes, pastor of the local church, thirty-three years ago. He is an able preacher, sound, logical and appealing. A good congregation greeted him at the opening service and interest is deepening.

A cordial invitation is extended the public to attend these services.

Mrs. E. A. Brady will leave today for Dallas to make her home in that city with her son, Alfred E. Brady, a former well known Y. M. C. A. man who is now engaged in a mercantile business in Dallas.

BAND CONCERT AT THE CITY PARK FRIDAY 15.

The following Band Concert will be given at the City Park Friday evening June 15th, at the City Park. The public is cordially invited to be present:

Gibraltar, overture—Al Hayes.
Inspiration, Waltzes—H. C. Miller.
The Stars and Stripes Forever, march—Souza.
An Autumn Romance—K. L. King.
Lassus Trombone—H. Fillmore.
Hot Lips, Fox Trot—Henry Busse.
March of the Insurgents—E. P. Atherton.

WINNERS IN THE AMERICAN LEGION ESSAY CONTEST

The American Legion announces that the winners of its Essay Contest are as follows:

Harleigh McGregor, first prize.
Ruth Kemp, second prize.
Leonard Mewhinney, third prize.
The number of competitors was not as large as had been hoped for but the essays submitted showed that the authors had given considerable study to the subject and had a fine appreciation of the rights and duties imposed by our Constitutional Guarantees.

It is hoped that this contest will serve to inspire in the minds of our young people a desire to study the fundamental documents upon which we have reared our governmental structure.

An appreciation of and reverence for our Constitutions National and State must be stirred and kept alive if our country is to continue to fill the high destiny our fathers fought and planned for.

SENATE ADOPTS REPORT.

Austin, Texas, June 13.—Agreement on the general educational appropriation bill was reached by a majority of the house and senate free conference committee this afternoon. The bill as agreed upon shows a reduction of over $800,000 compared with that passed last session. A horizontal reduction of nearly 8 per cent was made on all the educational

The Cameron Comets play the Jacksonville Bears Friday and Saturday. As is well known, the Bears are managed by Coach Frank Bridges of Baylor University, and most of the players are from the Baylor team, which has just won the Southwestern Conference championship, the biggest college championship in this section of the United States. Last year the Bears and the Comets played nine games, the Comets winning four and the Bears five. With both teams materially stronger this year a brace of fast games is in prospect.

Manager Bridges has made no definite announcement as yet, but it is thought that he will pitch Teddy Lyons on Saturday. Lyons is only temporarily with the Bears, as he has signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox and leaves for the big show in a few days. These two games present an excellent opportunity to see real big leaguers in action. Manager Rogers has not announced his pitching assignments.

Jacksonville's season opens on the 18th, and their regular schedule includes a five game series with Cameron. When the Comets meet such illustrious opponents a real base ball festival may be expected, and it behooves the entire citizenship to come out and root for the Home Team. Lawless Green Athletic Park will be packed to capacity Friday and Saturday. The boys want Bear Meat!

WEATHER REPORT.

(Courtesy of J. T. Parma, by Radio.)

Thursday June 14, 11:00 a. m.
Dallas and vicinity—Tonight and Friday partly cloudy to cloudy and probably unsettled weather.

Not much change in temperature. East Texas (Cameron)—Tonight and Friday partly cloudy to unsettled weather.

West Texas—Tonight partly cloudy probably showers and cooler in the Panhandle Friday.

Temperature is about eight degrees below normal.

Dallas the lowest for the state with 79.

Cameron 84, Lampasas and Cuero 96 the two highest.

Rainfall the past twenty four hours: Dallas 35, Greenville .26 and Sherman 18-100.

HIGHWAY REPORT.

Thursday June 14, 11:00 a. m.
All highways are passable in Texas but are rough in places as a result of the recent rains.

Parties bound for St. Louis should use route from Cameron via Dallas, Fort Scott, Kansas, Nevada, Sedalia and Jefferson City as roads are very bad around Kansas City.

California points can be reached via the lower route or the upper route. The lower route is the best and it will be found about as good as expected. Don't hesitate and take that trip.

San Antonio via Rogers, Little River and Taylor is the best route.

The route to Colorado Springs is used daily thru Cameron and the entire route is good. To Houston via Hearne the route is kept alive with travelers and is in a fair to good shape.

Increased travel is noted to Burnet and westward points this week. This route leads from Cameron thru Rogers, Little River, Granger, Georgetown and Burnet. From Burnet the traveler has choice of routes to Lampasas or to Mason, Brady and San Angelo or Ballinger.

From Mason stone on the Llano River or go westward to Junction.

Cameron is getting her share of the tourists this year.

institutions. The bill now totals slightly over $11,000,000.

The senate this afternoon adopted the free conference report on the Greer rural aid school bill, fixing the appropriation at $3,000,000 for the next two years. This insures final passage of the bill as the appropriation was placed at the same amount originally in the house.

Mrs. Bertha Brewer and niece, Miss Helen Flinn left Tuesday afternoon for Temple.

ACTION IS ASKED ON THE NEAR EAST SITUATION

Washington, June 11.—A program of action by the United States government in the interest of just settlements of Near Eastern questions and improvement of the condition of refugees in that quarter, was urged in a letter presented to President Harding today by a delegation of church men and signed by a committee of fifteen denominational and philanthropic organizations.

"There is a large and increasing element of our citizenship," the letter said, "who feel that our government should take a more definite stand for the securing of justice in behalf of the oppressed peoples of the Near East."

The letter, presenting the views of representatives of the religious and philanthropic organizations as expressed in a meeting in New York last month, said the signing committee also was "requested to make clear to the administration at Washington that there is a large and increasing element of our citizenship who are dissatisfied with the unwillingness of our government to give to the Greeks the moral support which would come to them if we resumed diplomatic relations with them."

In addition to this suggestion the letter urged that Secretary Hughes' proposal to the British, French and Italian governments for the formation of an international commission to take care of the refugee situation in the Near East be pressed to a definite end. Delay at this time means "actual death of thousands," the letter says, adding that as regards the refugees in Greece the Greek government was unable financially to care for them.

EDITORS CLOSE YEARLY MEET AT GALVESTON.

Galveston, Texas, June 10.—A boat ride aboard the steamer Galvez, which gave opportunity for hundreds of landlubbers to see Galveston's shipping facilities, ended the forty-fourth annual convention of the Texas Press Association Saturday.

Most of the visiting editors left at 6:30 o'clock aboard a special train carrying the North and West Texas delegations. Others got away later during the evening. A few remained over Sunday, while a number spent the day in Houston.

Amarillo was named as the 1924 meetin place and Sam T. Broswell of the Clarendon News was elected president for the current year; Albert Luker of the Grapeland Messenger, vice president, and Sam P. Harben, secretary (re-elected.)

Other new officers include: Clarence E. Gilmore, Austin, attorney (re-elected); Arthur Lefevre, essayist; Arthur Shannon, Wharton, orator; M. P. Loomis, Canadian, poet; E. G. Senter, Dallas, historian, and L. S. Nunn, Amarillo, custodian of the flag. George A. T. New, Brenham; L. S. Holloway, W. A. Smith and E. A. Clark are the new members of the executive committee.

M. E. Foster, publisher of the Chronicle, was a speaker at the morning session Saturday, discussing Texas libel laws, along with Tom Finty, Jr., of Dallas. E. G. Senter opposed Finty's suggestion for bonding newspapers, declaring it would be an expense impossible to be carried by the average weekly paper.

Sam P. Harbin was named field agent for the association, after the plan which obtains in Nebraska. His duties will be to look after the interests of association members throughout the state and particularly to watch legislative action at Austin when the legislature is in session. He will also handle advertising matter for members.

NAVY RECRUITING MEN SPEND DAY HERE.

Chief Yeoman Clark and Chief Quartermaster Martin of the U. S. N. traveling recruiting party arrived in Cameron today to examine men between the ages of 18 and 35 who are desirous of enlisting in the Navy. Men after passing a preliminary examination will be sent to Houston, Texas, at government expense and of found physically qualified will be later transferred to the U. S. Naval Training Station, San Francisco, California for 8 weeks training and where the following trade schools are open: electrical, radio, yomen, machinist, copper smith and musicians. Examinations will be held all day at the Post Office building.

TWICE PROVED.

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Cameron evidence—doubtly proven.

J. D. Cone, carpenter, Third St., says: "I had been troubled for some time with my kidneys. There was a weakness across my back and at times, it became very painful. There was an irregularity of the kidney secretions and at times, they were profuse in passage and highly colored. I was compelled to lay off work for several days. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and through their use, I was soon feeling better in every way."

Over Seven Years Later, Mr. Cone added: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills grows stronger as the years go by. Never have Doan's failed to do all I could wish them to."

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't Stay Gray. Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair. A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

LARGE NUMBER MILAM COUNTY FARMERS VISIT THE A. & M. COLLEGE

On Friday June 8th the County Farm Demonstration Agent, Geo. Banzhaf conducted a party of some fifty Milam county farmers on a visit to the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Bryan for the purpose of seeing the College and attending Lectures by several of the Professors. The trip was made by automobile, leaving at 7 a. m. and returning before nightfall. Both the Cameron and Rockdale commercial bodies were officially represented, Tom S. Henderson, Jr., representing the Cameron Commercial Club and C. F. Drake, Secretary, representing the Rockdale Chamber of Commerce.

The party arrived at College Station at 10 a. m. and were at once taken in hand by several officers of the College and conducted to the Lecture Room of the Department of Extension, where they were officially welcomed by T. O. Walton, Director of Extension. Mr. Walton delivered an address in which he called attention of the visitors to the great work the College is doing for the farmers and explained the organizations of College work in a very interesting manner. The address of welcome was responded to by Tom S. Henderson, Jr., in behalf of the party.

The morning was spent in visiting the Animal Husbandry Department, visits being paid to the hog, cattle and horse barns where short talks were made on various livestock subjects and demonstrations of stock judging given from the standpoint of properly culling herds.

Recess was taken for dinner which was served in the Annex of the College Mess Hall.

The afternoon program started with a trip to the new Agricultural Building where Dean Kyle of the Department of Agriculture made an interesting talk on the subject of Agricultural education. The party was then conducted to the Pecan Budding Grove, where F. I. Bryson gave a most instructive lecture and demonstration of budding, showing all stages of the work from the selection of proper bud-wood to the final pruning of the trees.

The visit to the Veterinary Building was made very entertaining by Dr. Francis, Head of the Veterinary Department, who not only explained the Museum Exhibits showing the result of various animal diseases but also showed the remains of animals that inhabited this country thousands of years ago, and finally led the party to the top floor where he exhibited an Egyptian mummy, which is affectionately known as "King Tut."

At the Textile Building the party was treated to a demonstration of the entire process of cloth manufacture from the raw trashy cotton to the beautifully figured table cloth. In the absence of Prof. Bagley one of the Assistants conducted the demonstration and answered many questions from the ladies of the party who seemed more interested in this than any other features of the day's entertainment.

By this time the party had been delayed and the trip to the Poultry Farm was shortened because of that fact. However, the young folks of the party had a splendid time with the ostriches, and a short lecture was given on housing and feeding chickens. There was also a demonstration of poultry judging for egg laying capacity and a visit to the pen of the $1500 prize rooster.

In driving to the Dairy Barn a route was taken through the Experiment Station, which is under the direction of Dr. Bonnie Youngblood, who was born and reared in Milam County. Many of the members of the party were interested in the test crops being grown, but lack of time prevented their stopping.

At the Dairy Barn the milkers were in the act of milking the cows of the fine registered herd, including both Jerseys and Holsteins. One very fine feature of this Barn was its arrangement for feeding and for sanitation. A trip was also made to the Test Barn where some champions were undergoing a years test. The best cow in the Test Barn already has a record of over 2600 lbs. of milk and over 700 lbs. of butter fat in one year. These cows are milked four times a day and are cared for like babies.

The tour was ended with a visit to the Zoo where many strange animals were seen, and the party started home at 4:30, arriving in Cameron at 7:30.

Those composing the party were the following:

Geo. Banzhaf, County Demonstration Agent, Tom S. Henderson, Jr., Cameron Commercial Club, C. F. Drake, Rockdale Chamber of Commerce, Durni, F. E. Jackson and family, Mrs. Jeff Kemp, Miss Ruth Kemp and Miss Gladys Henry, Home Demonstration Agent, of Cameron, J. W. Seaton, Bob Seaton, E. H. Schroder, F. Schroder, Geo. Schroder, Frank

The only cap that's right for rainy-day wear—"SURE-FIT"

THE ONLY cap, we repeat. A strong statement, that—but consider the facts:

Suppose it's blowing like all sixty. You take hold of the little strap on your "SURE-FIT", snug it in a bit as you would your belt—and that cap'll sit tight till your head blows off!

Suppose you're out for some time in the rain. Any cap'll shrink then. You'd be darned uncomfortable in an ordinary cap. But you just ease out the strap in your "SURE-FIT" and go on smilingly.

Tight or loose, or in-between, your "SURE-FIT" always fits—comfortably, perfectly.

And, if you get one of the shower-proofed "SURE-FITs" you'll be cock o' the walk so far as head-gear is concerned. The shower-proofing process keeps the cap in shape, improves its finish, makes it last longer, and sheds showers like a duck.

See the new Fifth Avenue styles and patterns that have just come in. Prices the same as you'd pay for any stylish cap—and you get "SURE-FITs" unrivalled comfort.

MAKERS OF THE FLAG

(Delivered on Flag Day, 1914, before the employees of the Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C., by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior.)

This morning, as I passed into the Land office, The Flag dropped me a most cordial salutation, and from its rippling folds I heard it say: "Good morning, Mr. Flag-Maker."

"I beg your pardon, Old Glory," I said, "aren't you mistaken? I am not the President of the United States nor a member of Congress, nor even a general in the army. I am only a government clerk."

"I greet you again, Mr. Flag-Maker," replied the gay voice. "I know you well. You are the man who worked in the sweater of yesterday straightening out the tangle of the farmer's homestead in Idaho, or perhaps you found a mistake in that Indian contract in Oklahoma, or helped to clear that patent for the hopeful inventor in New York, or pushed the opening of that new ditch in Colorado, or made the mine in Illinois more safe, or brought relief to the old soldier in Wyoming. No matter; which ever one of these beneficent individuals you may happen to be, I give you greeting, Mr. Flag-Maker."

I was about to pass on, when The Flag stopped me with these words:

"Yesterday the President spoke a word that made happier the future of ten million peons in Mexico; but that act looms no larger on the flag than the struggle which the boy in Georgia is making to win the Corn Club prize this summer."

"Yesterday the Congress spoke a word that will open the door of Alaska but a mother in Michigan worked from sunrise until far into the night, to give her boy an education. She, too, is making the flag."

"Yesterday we made a new law to prevent financial panics and yesterday, maybe, a school teacher in Ohio taught his first letters to a boy who will one day write a song that will give cheer to the millions of our race. We are all making the flag."

"But," I said impatiently, "these people were only working!"

Then came a great shout from The Flag:

"The work that we do is the making of the flag."

"I am not the flag; not at all. I am but its shadow."

"I am whatever you make me, nothing more."

"I am your belief in yourself, your dream of what a people may become."

"I live a changing life, a life of moods and passions, of heartbreaks and tired musles."

"Sometimes I am strong with pride, when men do an honest work, fitting the rails together truly."

"Sometimes I droop, for then purpose has gone from me, and cynically I play the coward."

"Sometimes I am loud, garish, and full of that ego that blasts judgment."

"But always I am all that you hope to be, and have the courage to try for."

"I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope."

"I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring."

"I am the Constitution and the courts, statutes and statute makers, soldiers and dreadsnaught, drayman and street sweep, cook, counselor, and clerk."

"I am the battle of yesterday, and the mistake of tomorrow."

"I am the mystery of the men who do without knowing why."

"I am the cluth of an idea, and the reasoning purpose of resolution."

"I am no more than what you believe me to be and I am all that you believe I can be."

"I am what you make me, nothing more."

"I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dreams and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. For you are the makers of the flag and it is well that you glory in the making."

He was so bashful that he wouldn't look at the pictures of the girls in bathing suit advertisements.

"Johnny, get away from that machinist's bench; you'll get bad habits from their naughty vises."

Time is slipping, said the Sand clock as the Granules steadily fell.

A bee has the advantage over a man. "They take away all a bee makes in a year, but they don't make him file an income tax return before they take it."

The difference between a saint and a sinner is that one happened at a certain important place to turn to the right, while the other didn't.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

On Friday morning, the Intermediate Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a delightful breakfast and swim at the City Park.

The Endeavor, for the past month, has been divided into two sections with Reba Young and Henry McFadyen as captains. Points were awarded for the best programs and best attendance each Sabbath, and at the close of the month, Reba Young's division proved winners and they were entertained by the losing side. Each member was permitted to invite one guest.

The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Kathryn K. Robbins who has charge of the Intermediate Endeavor work, and she was assisted by Miss Alice Ford, Mrs. B. P. Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. McFadyen.

NOTES FROM THE MISSIONARY.

On the first Sunday of this month I preached at both hours at Miller-ton for Pastor T. P. Angel who with a number of others received their Diplomas as Graduates from the San Marcos Baptist Academy this present term.

Thursday night following Bro. R. C. White and I went out to the Baptist Church at Clackson where we helped to ordain brother R. K. Anderson, E. L. Burnet and Henry Lindsay to the Deaconsip. The Pastor, Bro. R. A. Pryor is doing a good work here and is greatly beloved by his church and community.

On the following Friday night I preached at Walkers creek to an appreciative congregation who are still without a pastor.

I preached at both hours for the Baptist saints at Rockdale to large congregations, they too are pastorless, but are on the alert for an undershepherd. At the conclusion of the night service we baptized an elderly man who was very happy in following his Lord in this beautiful ordinance.

A DREADFUL EXPERIENCE.

About 9:30 Sunday morning en route to Rockdale I narrowly escaped a horrible death in backing my off of the north end of the Mc-down Bridge over Little River to let a buggy pass, as I came so near plunging over the high embankment in to the river below that the fright was terrible. I had forgotten that the road made a curve in its approach to the bridge. I take this method of serving notice on our County Commissioners, Judge and the Road Overseer that in case of death or serious accident at this place, the unintentional on their part, that they are criminally guilty and this fact will be proven in the courts beyond a doubt. Let this place, a veritable death trap be looked after at once.

I am preaching at night's this week at Walkers Creek. I thank all the good people for their co-operation and prayers which make possible for me to succeed in my Masters Work in this needy field. This includes the kindness shown me by the Cameron Herald in giving me space and liberty in writing these articles.

We are indebted much more than we think to the influence of Christianity. Brothers, as your Missionary, I cannot visit you all as often as I would like, the field is large and needy and so many other duties claim my attention.

My heart goes out to you all. In every way I am going to help you all I can. Our resources are great, God's gifts to us are marvellous and my earnest prayers and deepest yearnings are that every one of us shall be "good stewards of the manifold grace of God" in every detail of our known duties.

E. L. SPRINGER, Missionary Milam County Association.

SHERIFF'S NOTICE.

THE STATE OF TEXAS

County of Milam.

Notice is hereby given that an election will be held on the 7th day of July A. D. 1923, at Ben Arnold school house District No. 59 in this County, as established by order of the Commissioners Court of date the 15th day of February 1913, which order is of record in Volume 5, Page 253 of the Minutes of the Commissioners Court of Milam County, Texas to determine whether a majority of the legally qualified property tax paying voters of said District desire to increase the tax now levied in said District for the purpose of supplementing the State school fund apportioned to said District from a rate of fifty cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of taxable property in said District to a rate of seventy-five cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of taxable property in said District for said purpose, and to determine whether the Commissioners Court of this County shall be authorized to levy, assess and collect annually said rate of seventy-five cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of taxable property in said District for said purpose.

Frank Sherrill has been appointed presiding officer for said election, and he shall elect 2 judges and 2 clerks to assist him in holding the same and he shall within five days after said election has been held make due return thereof to the Commissioners Court of this County as is required by law for holding a general election.

The polls in said election shall be opened at 8 o'clock a. m. and shall be closed at 7 o'clock p. m.

All persons who are legally qualified voters of this State and County, and who are resident property tax payers in said District shall be entitled to vote at said election, and the voters who favor increase in the rate of taxation for school purposes shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "For increase of school tax;" and those opposed to such increase of taxation shall have written or printed on their ballots the words: "Against the increase of school tax."

Said election was ordered by the County Judge of this County by order made on the 13th day of June A. D. 1923, and this notice is given in pursuance of said order.

Dated this the 13th day of June A. D. 1923.

D. S. ROGERS, Sheriff, Milam County, Texas.

The baker knows the kind of oven he needs, and the Florence Oven is patterned after his. Compare the arch in the baker's brick oven to the arch in the top of the Florence.

This arch prevents heat pockets and turns the heat current down over the baking.

The heat is not concentrated over the burners. It is evenly distributed through an asbestos-lined air chamber. Your food will not be burned at the bottom and underdone on top. Glass doors make it easy to watch your baking and roasting. Stop in and let us show you the Florence Oven.

CHRONICLINGS OF INTEREST FROM OVER THE COUNTY

WILL SOON ENTER SUMMER NORMAL.

Miss Ruth Spiegel and Raymond Hertenberger of Sharp were here Sunday for a visit with Miss Martha Barnes.

Miss Ruth was a member of the recent graduating class of the Sharp school and she will leave right soon for San Marcos to attend the Southwest Texas State Normal during the summer.

Miss Spiegel has been correspondent for the Champion during the past year and has notified us that she can no longer serve us in that capacity, and we are without a representative in that splendid community. We appreciate the prompt and faithful service given us by Miss Ruth, the Champion's best wishes go with her in her effort to complete her education.—Thorndale Champion.

GRADUATION EXERCISES.

The Commencement exercises at the school auditorium Friday night were well attended, standing room being at a premium. There were eleven members of the class participating in the exercises.

The program was begun by a talk on general lines of interest to patrons and friends of the school by Superintendent Samuel which was followed by music and other usual features. The Valedictory Address was made by Miss Nina Survant, the Salutatory by Gordon Hinds, Class History by Harmon Ponton, the Class Poem by Elmer Lee Townsend, Class Prophecy by Miss Clarice Jinks, and special musical and vocal numbers by Mrs. Ruby Rouse Phillips, Mrs. L. G. Butts, and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Christian. The diplomas were presented by former Superintendent H. M. Roark, now county clerk, in his informal and interesting manner.

The Grammar School play on Thursday night was especially good—the best in several years.—Thorndale Champion.

LOSES BARN AND CONTENTS.

Miss Laura Felton, residing near San Gabriel sustained a loss of several hundred dollars during the electrical storm on Tuesday night, May 29th, when her barn and contents, consisting of feed stuff and harness was destroyed by fire, caused by lightning striking the barn. Two mules belonging to another party were also killed by lightning at the same time.—Thorndale Champion.

County Clerk H. M. Roark and Fred Henry of Cameron were here Tuesday. Mr. Roark came over primarily to qualify the applicants for Notaries Public in this community and to spend a few hours at the same time with his many good friends in "the Old Home Town." Prof. Roark says he is delighted with Cameron and has a good office force and therefore everything is moving nicely and orderly in the clerk's office. Mr.

Henry is an insurance man and is a friend of the senior Champion editor of long standing.—Thorndale Champion.

REVIVAL MEETING IN BIG TENT.

The Methodist, Christian and Baptist Churches of Thorndale have agreed to work jointly in a revival meeting to be held under a big tent beginning next Monday night. The tent will be erected, we understand, on the lot just south and at the rear of the Strauss-Grubbs Co., building on the corner and will be of sufficient seating capacity to accommodate several hundred people.

Rev. V. B. Stearnes of Waco will do the preaching and Mr. J. C. Cohen of Palestine will conduct the song service. Rev. Stearnes is now engaged in holding a meeting at Palestine and has had wonderful success as an evangelist. Mr. Cohen is recognized to be one of the best gospel singers in the country and those who know these gentlemen anticipate a great meeting.—Thorndale Champion.

LILAC SCHOOL BONDS CARRY.

The Lilac School District held an election last week and voted unanimously in favor of issuing bonds in the amount of $3600 for the purpose of erecting a new school building at Lilac. The bonds are expected to be sold within the next few weeks and the erection of same will begin in time for the next school term.—Thorndale Champion.

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT FOR MILAM COUNTY

Milam county's new Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Gladys Henry, came in last week and immediately assumed her duties. Miss Henry is from Harris county, and is thoroughly posted and equipped for her work. She will make headquarters in Cameron, but her duties will take her to all parts of the county, and any community desiring her services will receive same on demand.

Her work will include the organization of Women's Clubs and Girl's Clubs in the various communities, and after these clubs are organized she will visit them at regular intervals and give instruction in the various items of Home Demonstration work.—Rockdale Reporter.

BELL COUNTY LAD HIT ON HEAD WITH BAT IS VERY SERIOUSLY HURT.

Belton, June 10.—Leroy Mallicoate, 11, lies in a local hospital with a fractured skull tonight, as a result of being struck on the head by a flying baseball bat which had slipped from the hands of a batter in a base ball game which the boy was watching several miles south of here at 3:30 this afternoon. Physicians at the hospital to which the boy was taken immediately, said tonight that the condition of Leroy was very serious. The batter swung a pitched ball, missed, and the bat slipped from his hands, first striking the shoulder of a man who was watching the game, and then glancing to where it struck Leroy. The name of the batter could not be learned tonight.

Leroy is the son of E. L. Mallicoate who lives near Holland.

QUICK ACTION BRAKES EXTRA LARGE AND EXTRA SAFE

In the construction of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, every consideration has been given to the owner's safety.

This is particularly evident in the brakes, which, with their 14-inch drums and 2 1/4 inch lining, are appreciably larger than the average. The extra surface thus provided develops greater friction when the brake bands contract over the drums—and it is this friction which stops the car.

Connecting levers are designed to transmit the maximum of power with the minimum of effort. The slightest pressure on the brake pedal has an immediate effect. This pressure is distributed evenly between the two rear wheels by a highly efficient equalizer, which prevents skidding because it retards both wheels simultaneously.

And the brake bands grip evenly all around the drums. This protects the lining against irregular wear and enables the driver to stop quickly, quietly and safely.

"I WILL WRITE you in regard to Black-Draught liver medicine, as I have been using it more than 18 years," says a letter from Mr. S. F. Mintz, of R. F. D. 2, Leland, N. C. "I keep it in my home all the time, for it is mostly our family medicine. When we begin to feel feverish or sluggish, with trouble from the liver or stomach, we take a dose of Thedford's Black-Draught and the trouble is soon over. I mostly buy a dollar package at a time, and it has saved me many a bill."

Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable remedy, acting on the liver, stomach and bowels. It is made from selected herbs and roots, and contains no calomel or other mineral drugs.

It has been found of great value, in indigestion, stomach trouble, sick headache, constipation, and lazy liver, helping to relieve the symptoms caused by these troubles, and to put the digestive system into proper working order.

COMETS FORGING TOWARD VICTORY

COMETS WIN OVER SOMERVILLE TEAM.

Somerville, Texas, June 7.—A bombardment at expense of Olsen, A. & M. college star, which totaled 13 hits and 9 runs, enabled the Cameron Comets to defeat the local club again yesterday afternoon and make a clean sweep of the two game series staged here.

Giffin, another Aggie product, was started on the mound by Manager Rogers but was relieved in the fourth inning with two on and two out. Seigler took up the burden and struck out 10 men in the 5 innings he worked. Kenna of Cameron hit a home run, his second in 2 days and Rakin, of the locals parked one in the last of the ninth.

The score: H. R. E.
Cameron ..... 9 12 1
Somerville ..... 4 9 2
Giffin, Seigler and Rainey, Olsen and Simmons.

COMETS TAKE FIRST FROM GORESBECK TEAM.

Cameron, Texas, June 8.—The Cameron Comets defeated the Groesbeck entry for central Texas honors in a very interesting game here this afternoon by a score of 13 to 4. The teams will meet in the second and final game of the series tomorrow afternoon.

The game today was featured by the heavy hitting of the Comets, which included a home run by Brewer and a perfect day at bat by Kenna, and the pitching of Bengie. The Sam Houston Normal product allowed but 5 hits and struck out 11 batters, although working easy behind a big lead.

The Comets lost their first game of the season to a semi-pro team Thursday when the Caldwell took them to a 4 to 2 cleaning on the Caldwell diamond. The teams will meet in Cameron for the return game next Wednesday afternoon. Sunday the Comets will play the Liberty Hill team on the Thorndale diamond. All of the teams with which the locals have games scheduled are in the running for the championship and Manager Rogers is lining up some of the best college and semi-pro material in the state in an effort to win. Lefty Odom, late of the Beaumont Exporters, and Crump, of Southwestern university, joined the team today and three new men will report tomorrow. Groesbeck ..... 4 5 3

Cameron ..... 13 11 3
Osborne, Dunn and Adams. Bengie and Rainey.

LEFTY ODOM WINS FIRST START AS CAMERON FLINGER

Cameron, Texas, June 9.—Lefty Odom won his first start as a Comet flinger here today when he let the Groesbeck team down with 3 hits and annexed a total of 9 strikeouts in handing them a 7 to 1 beating. In addition to the mastery work of Odom, the game was featured by the heavy hitting of the Comets, Kenna, getting a home run and Left Fielder Puckett, of Aggie fame, 3 doubles.

The Comets will play the Liberty Hill team on the Thorndale diamond Sunday and will meet Curtis' fast west team on the local diamond Monday and Tuesday.

The score: H. R. E.
Groesbeck ..... 1 3 3
Cameron ..... 7 10 1
Rogers, Dunn and Adams. Odom and Rainey.

CAMERON COMETS BEAT LIBERTY HILL BY SCORE OF 13-4.

Thorndale, Texas, June 10.—The Cameron Comets added another well played game to their string of victories here this afternoon when they trimmed the Liberty Hill team by a score of 13 to 4. The contest was a free hitting affair, the Comets having connected with 19 safeties, one a homerun by Kenna, and the Liberty team 11.

The Comets will meet the West Sluggers on the Cameron diamond Monday and Tuesday followed by Caldwell on Wednesday and Coach Bridges' collection of stars, that are to play under the Jacksonville banner this season, on Friday and Saturday. These games are expected to draw record crowds as both teams are rated as the fastest semi-pro organizations in the state.

The score: H. R. E.
Liberty Hill ..... 4 11 3
Cameron ..... 31 19 1

COMETS SLAUGHTER WEST SLUGGERS BY A SCORE OF 15 TO 2.

Cameron, Texas, June 11.—The West Sluggers failed to live up to their name in the game here today and went down before the heavy hitting of the Comet wrecking crew, the final score after 9 hectic innings having stood at 15 to 2 with the Comets on the paying end. The game was the first of a 2 game series and the teams will meet on the local diamond again tomorrow afternoon.

In piling up their 15 runs the Comets connected for 15 safeties including one of the longest home runs ever made on the Cameron diamond by Catcher Rainey and 4 long drives by Sevier. The visitors managed to garner 11 hits but they were well scattered and mostly of the scratch variety. Don Curtis, famous big league scout in charge of the West team, used 5 pitchers, including Littlejohn of Milford high school fame, but all were treated alike by the Comet sluggers.

Following the game with West tomorrow the Comets will play Caldwell on the local diamond Wednesday and will go to Bartlett for a game with Liberty Hill Thursday then back to Cameron for 2 games with the Baylor Bears on Friday and Saturday.

The score: H. R. E.
West ..... 2 11 4
Cameron ..... 15 15 2
Cartright, Beatty, Massey, Littlejohn, Bressler, Whitlock and Whitson. Seigler and Rainey.

CAMERON COMETS DOWN WEST TEAM BY A SIX TO TWO SCORE.

Cameron, Texas, June 12.—The Cameron Comets gave Don Curtis and his school boys a lesson in the art of playing the national pastime here this afternoon when they defeated them in a fast game by a score of 6 to 2. The win gave the locals a clean sweep of the two game series.

Cameron scored in the third inning following Giffin's triple but the West team was leading at the last of the eighth inning by a score of 2 to 1. Sevier came up with two men on and delivered with a triple, putting the game on ice.

The Comets will play Caldwell here tomorrow afternoon and on Friday and Saturday will be hosts to Bridges Baylor Bears. According to word from Waco, Teddy Lyons, who recently signed with the Chicago White Sox, will be on the mound for the Bears in the Saturday game. He will probably be opposed by Bengie or Kalina.

The score: H. R. E.
West ..... 2 10 1
Cameron ..... 6 13 1
Littlejohn and Whitson. Giffin and Rainey.

Our National Constitutional Guarantees As Outlined By the Bill of Rights And The Necessity Therefor

An American literary critic has said that the greatest work that ever came from an American pen is the Preamble to the Constitution. The Preamble is: "We, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." This Preamble gives definitely the reasons for drawing up our Constitution. The first three words of the Preamble express the true theme of the American nation and government. Our nation and government were founded and maintained by "We, the People."

The welfare of the American citizen is insured in the first ten amendments to our Constitution. These amendments are called the American Bill of Rights because of their similarity to the documents in England which gave the people of England their first step toward greater freedom.

Very briefly stated, the greatest things the Bill of Rights provides for are: Freedom of religion, speech and the press; privacy of the home against soldiers and unreasonable searches; the power of each individual state; and the rights of trials.

Under our Constitution Congress can make no law prohibiting the free exercise of any religion as long as the religion does not directly harm his fellow man or tend to immorality. We also have the power of free speech as long as our utterances are not treasonable.

The home of an American cannot be forced to quarter soldiers in time of war. Homes are also protected against unreasonable searches and seizures without a legal warrant which names the person to be searched or seized.

The separate states are empowered to handle all affairs which pertain only to them. The state is still a powerful factor in our government.

The last and most important is Right of Trial. A person cannot be tried unless upon the presentation of an indictment of a grand jury. The accused person may enjoy a speedy, public trial by an impartial jury of his own state. Our theory of trials is that, "It is better that the guilty escape than that the innocent suffer."

We see that in America, the greatest nation of the world, we do have many clearly defined National Constitutional Guarantees and that these guarantees are definitely outlined in the American Bill of Rights. We Americans should appreciate our privileges more than we do. Abraham Lincoln has said, "Let reverence of the law be breathed by every mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in the schools, seminaries and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit and proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice; in short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

MONTHLY MARKET REPORT. (By White-House Motor Co.)

There are some who profess to see in the reports a decline in forward buying, especially discernible in the steel, non-ferrous metals, and textile industries, and in cotton and grains, a real turning point in the business cycle—a collapse of prosperity and a beginning of a new period of depression.

No doubt, recent events have been the occasion for many business men treating themselves to a real scare. Indeed, a few developments of the last month appear to be suspiciously symptomatic of a general declining movement. For instance, the stock market which is now hesitating and unsettled, has declined some 10 to 12 points from its high; and although this weakness can easily be attributed to an overbought condition at a time when business was surging forward and registering "new highs," it has undoubtedly adversely affected business sentiment.

Attention has also been called to the postponement or abandonment of building projects from exorbitant labor demands and the high lever of building costs. April building expenditures were only 7 per cent greater than those for March, whereas the normal seasonal expansion should have been fully 20 per cent. Still, building volume at the present time is at least equal to last year's record for this season of the year.

A buyers' strike, moreover, is said to exist in some lines, such as building materials, steel, textiles, sugar, etc. Whence, it is reasoned that a buyers' strike might well spread itself to all lines. But this is not necessary or likely. Purchasing power is high. A buying pause in one market simply means that there will be a shifting of demand to other groups of commodities.

By far the most likely interpretation of the present situation favors the point of view that this is a temporary reaction which the best informed observers have expected as a logical course of events. In our last analysis we stated that production had been pushed to the ultimate limit and the reaction that has now come (which while admitted, is not as severe as bearish propaganda on the stock market would indicate,) may be attributed to the following causes:

1. Production of goods during the first four months of this year was probably greater than during any similar period in history. Whatever deficit in stocks existed theretofore must have been in a large measure overcome. Such a rate of output could hardly be expected to be sustained.

2. First quarter buying was on an extensive scale at rising price levels. Near-term requirements of manufacturers and wholesalers who rushed into the markets to avoid paying higher prices, are therefore temporarily covered. The most important price reactions are in the non-ferrous metals, cotton, wheat, and rubber.

3. Exports have been falling and imports have been rising. In March the trade balance was against this country for the first time since Aug. 1914, and amounted to 61 million dollars. The first is explained by the Ruhr crisis, which has checked European purchasing power, and accounts for the recent weakness in our grain and cotton markets. Rising imports are explained by the attractiveness of the relative high price level here, and by the fact that it is only in this way that Europe can pay her debt to us.

4. We have had an epidemic of cautionary advice from official Washington, and from business leaders. This has been good advice, which for the most part has been heeded, so that business men have not overstocked or overproduced, goods moving into consumption channels approximately as rapidly as turned out.

5. We are approaching the season of normal let-down, and relatively slower operations are to be expected.

PLEASANT RIDING

The many little acts of courtesy and service, for which our compensation is in good will rather than money, are considered just as important here as any other transaction.

We take no little pride in the fact that Chevrolet owners hereabout not only get a full measure of performance from their cars, but get pleasure as well as satisfaction from ownership.

"CUTS TIRE PRICES 10 PER CENT"

EFFECTIVE, JUNE 11

"We announce a 10% reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11th. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of larger volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousands of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best tire Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May 30th, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standard in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194% in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We have now 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

Our National Constitutional Guarantees As Outlined By the Bill of Rights And The Necessity Therefor

An American literary critic has said that the greatest work that ever came from an American pen is the Preamble to the Constitution. The Preamble is: "We, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America." This Preamble gives definitely the reasons for drawing up our Constitution. The first three words of the Preamble express the true theme of the American nation and government. Our nation and government were founded and maintained by "We, the People."

The welfare of the American citizen is insured in the first ten amendments to our Constitution. These amendments are called the American Bill of Rights because of their similarity to the documents in England which gave the people of England their first step toward greater freedom.

Very briefly stated, the greatest things the Bill of Rights provides for are: Freedom of religion, speech and the press; privacy of the home against soldiers and unreasonable searches; the power of each individual state; and the rights of trials.

Under our Constitution Congress can make no law prohibiting the free exercise of any religion as long as the religion does not directly harm his fellow man or tend to immorality. We also have the power of free speech as long as our utterances are not treasonable.

The home of an American cannot be forced to quarter soldiers in time of war. Homes are also protected against unreasonable searches and seizures without a legal warrant which names the person to be searched or seized.

The separate states are empowered to handle all affairs which pertain only to them. The state is still a powerful factor in our government.

The last and most important is Right of Trial. A person cannot be tried unless upon the presentation of an indictment of a grand jury. The accused person may enjoy a speedy, public trial by an impartial jury of his own state. Our theory of trials is that, "It is better that the guilty escape than that the innocent suffer."

We see that in America, the greatest nation of the world, we do have many clearly defined National Constitutional Guarantees and that these guarantees are definitely outlined in the American Bill of Rights. We Americans should appreciate our privileges more than we do. Abraham Lincoln has said, "Let reverence of the law be breathed by every mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in the schools, seminaries and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit and proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice; in short, let it become the political religion of the nation."

MONTHLY MARKET REPORT. (By White-House Motor Co.)

There are some who profess to see in the reports a decline in forward buying, especially discernible in the steel, non-ferrous metals, and textile industries, and in cotton and grains, a real turning point in the business cycle—a collapse of prosperity and a beginning of a new period of depression.

No doubt, recent events have been the occasion for many business men treating themselves to a real scare. Indeed, a few developments of the last month appear to be suspiciously symptomatic of a general declining movement. For instance, the stock market which is now hesitating and unsettled, has declined some 10 to 12 points from its high; and although this weakness can easily be attributed to an overbought condition at a time when business was surging forward and registering "new highs," it has undoubtedly adversely affected business sentiment.

Attention has also been called to the postponement or abandonment of building projects from exorbitant labor demands and the high level of building costs. April building expenditures were only 7 per cent greater than those for March, whereas the normal seasonal expansion should have been fully 20 per cent. Still, building volume at the present time is at least equal to last year's record for this season of the year.

A buyers' strike, moreover, is said to exist in some lines, such as building materials, steel, textiles, sugar, etc. Whence, it is reasoned that a buyers' strike might well spread itself to all lines. But this is not necessary or likely. Purchasing power is high. A buying pause in one market simply means that there will be a shifting of demand to other groups of commodities.

By far the most likely interpretation of the present situation favors the point of view that this is a temporary reaction which the best informed observers have expected as a logical course of events. In our last analysis we stated that production had been pushed to the ultimate limit and the reaction that has now come (which while admitted, is not as severe as bearish propaganda on the stock market would indicate,) may be attributed to the following causes:

1. Production of goods during the first four months of this year was probably greater than during any similar period in history. Whatever deficit in stocks existed theretofore must have been in a large measure overcome. Such a rate of output could hardly be expected to be sustained.

2. First quarter buying was on an extensive scale at rising price levels. Near-term requirements of manufacturers and wholesalers who rushed into the markets to avoid paying higher prices, are therefore temporarily covered. The most important price reactions are in the non-ferrous metals, cotton, wheat, and rubber.

3. Exports have been falling and imports have been rising. In March the trade balance was against this country for the first time since Aug. 1914, and amounted to 61 million dollars. The first is explained by the Ruhr crisis, which has checked European purchasing power, and accounts for the recent weakness in our grain and cotton markets. Rising imports are explained by the attractiveness of the relative high price level here, and by the fact that it is only in this way that Europe can pay her debt to us.

4. We have had an epidemic of cautionary advice from official Washington, and from business leaders. This has been good advice, which for the most part has been heeded, so that business men have not overstocked or overproduced, goods moving into consumption channels approximately as rapidly as turned out.

5. We are approaching the season of normal let-down, and relatively slower operations are to be expected.

PLEASANT RIDING

The many little acts of courtesy and service, for which our compensation is in good will rather than money, are considered just as important here as any other transaction.

We take no little pride in the fact that Chevrolet owners hereabout not only get a full measure of performance from their cars, but get pleasure as well as satisfaction from ownership.

"A VICTORY FOR AMERICAN MOTORISTS"

The Crude Rubber Monopoly Weakened When it Came into Contact With Aroused Public Sentiment. The Press of the Country Today Reflects the Determination of the American Motorist That Tire Prices Shall Stay at a Reasonable Level—and That America Must Produce Its Own Rubber.—Crude Rubber Monopoly.

Firestone

"CUTS TIRE PRICES 10 PER CENT"

EFFECTIVE, JUNE 11

"We announce a 10% reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11th. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of larger volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousands of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best tire Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May 30th, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standard in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases 194% in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We have now 108 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

Follow the tide of economical tire buying—equip with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords—and learn what Most Miles per Dollar Means to you today."

NEW LETTER SORTING DEVICE SPEEDS UP THE DISPATCH OF MAIL.

What is it? A new mechanical contrivance designed to insure an early dispatch of mail has been installed in the Washington Post office. No hand sorting of mail any longer. Five men at keyboards like this one operate the machine like a linotype machine and by the pressure of two keys on the keyboard each letter in front of the operator is sent on its way to a particular cell or compartment, leaving before him the next letter in the stack. Thus mail for various states and cities is segregated with practically no handling.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR BIG PICNIC IN CAMERON JULY 3.

and fireman's races in the morning, section send in their names to the local papers at once. If enough cars are pledged to make it interesting this plan will be carried out.

The Fireman's Races will be held immediately after the parade, and will include the standard reel races, cup races, handicap races and several novelties. Probably the "Water Foot Ball" game that gave so much fun several weeks ago will be played again. Cameron's Racing Team, which won practically everything at the State Fireman's Convention, will be seen in these stunts, and probably other teams from nearby towns will also compete.

The Big Barbecue will be a zestful part of the program. Already about a dozen herds and as many sheep and goats have been pledged, and more are being offered every day. It is planned to barbecue all this meat under the direction of one of the best Barbecue Masters in the state in two big pits each a hundred feet long, and enough barbecue furnished to feed fifteen thousand people. And all the good things that go with a barbecue will be served in generous quantities: pickles, fried chicken, pies, cakes, coffee and tea. On account of the enormous crowd expected it is requested that everybody bring baskets of pies, cakes, jellies, preserves, fried chicken and other dainties. Prizes will be offered for the best pies, cakes, etc.

After dinner will come the great speech. Efforts are now being made to secure Senator Morris Sheppard for the occasion and if he is unable to come, Governor Neff or some other great Texas orator will be present.

Before the ball game athletic events will be held at Lawless Green Athletic Park. It is proposed to have foot races, freak races, and a discus-throwing by Jack Taylor, Cameron's phenomenal star, who soon leaves for Europe as one of the American representatives in the High School Championship Athletic Meet.

For the ball game a real treat has been arranged. The Cameron Comets, last season's Central Texas Semi-Pro Champions, will meet the San Antonio Bears, one of the strongest teams in the Texas League. Manager Rogers has whipped together a team that is much stronger than last season's Comets, and he promises to give the big leaguers a real tussle.

If a suitable place can be had a big community dance will be held at night, with one of the best orchestras in Texas furnishing the music. This depends entirely on securing a place large enough to accommodate the great crowd and the committee invites suggestions as to such a place.

Of course there will be music by the Cameron Marching Band all day long, and lots of red lemonade, popcorn, ice cream cones, soda water, red balloons, confetti and all the other things that go to make a picnic what it is.

All this is what is projected for Cameron on Tuesday, June 3rd. What do you say, Mr. Cameron Citizen? What do you say, Mr. Friend From the Country? Make your wishes known. Send in your suggestions and contributions to the committee through the local papers. Come to the Commercial Club tomorrow night and hear the proposition discussed. Get out on the streets and boost it. Let's give Cameron and her friends the biggest day that ever was. See next week's paper for full program and particulars.
